PREFACE.

To trouble the reader with any lengthy remarks on the important advantages to be derived from a new translation of the Sacred Writings, is deemed altogether unnecessary. Much information on this point has been given by others, who have published modern Versions of the New Testament, with the reasons which have induced them to do so. Those reasons will serve in a great measure also for this. It is generally admitted by all critics, that the Authorized or Common version of the Scriptures, absolutely needs revision. Obsolete words, uncouth phrases, bad grammar and punctuation, &c., all require alteration. But this is not all. There are errors of a more serious nature which need correction. The translators of the Common version were circumscribed and trammelled by royal mandate; they were required to retain certain old ecclesiastical words, which accordingly were left untranslated. Thus the minds of many who had no means of knowing the meaning of the original words have been misled and confused. Biblical criticism, however, during the last two hundred years, has done much to open up and elucidate the Word of God, by discovering many things which were unknown to the old translators, making great improvements in the text, detecting numerous interpolations and errors, and suggesting far better renderings of many passages. Many modern versions have availed themselves of this valuable assistance, and it is believed they have (thereby been enabled to give the English reader a better understanding of what was originally written.

Without presuming to claim any superiority for this, as a translation of the New Testament, over any other modern version, it is thought that the present Work presents certain valuable features, not to be found elsewhere, and which will be of real practical utility to every one who wishes to read the books of the Evangelists and Apostles, as they were written under the guidance and inspiration of the Holy Spirit. These features are:—An approved Greek text, with the various Readings of the Vatican Manuscript, No. 1209; an Interlineary literal Word for Word English translation; a New Version, with the Signs of Emphasis; a copious selection of References; many appropriate, illustrative, and exegetical Foot-notes; and a valuable Alphabetical Appendix. This combination of important items cannot be found in any other book. The reader will find further remarks on this subject, on the page headed, "Plan of the Work;" and he is also invited to read the pages with the respective captions:—"To the Reader," "History of the Greek Text;" and "History of English Versions." Also, on another page will be found the "Letters and Pronunciation of the Greek Alphabet," for the special benefit of those who may wish to obtain a rudimentary knowledge of that language.

The intelligent reader will at once perceive the utility and importance of this arrangement. Readers who are familiar with the original tongue, obtain in this Work one of the best Greek Testaments, with important ancient Readings, well worthy of their attention, and, it is presumed, that there are even few Greek scholars, who are so far advanced, but may derive some help from the translation given. Those who have only a little or no knowledge of the Greek, may by careful reading, and a little attention to the Interlineary translation, soon become familiar with it. This Work, in fact, places in the hands of the intelligent English reader the means of knowing and appropriating for his own benefit, with but little labor on his part, what it has cost others years of study and severe toil to acquire.

Scrupulous fidelity has been maintained throughout this version in giving the true rendering of the original text into English; no regard whatever being paid to the prevailing doctrines or prejudices of sects, or the peculiar tenets of theologians. To the Divine authority of the original Scriptures alone has there been the most humble and unbiassed submission.

In the preparation of this Work for the press, all available help to be derived from the labors of great and learned men, has been obtained and appropriated. Lexicons, Grammars, ancient and modern Versions, Commentaries, critical and explanatory, Cyclopedias, Bible and other Dictionaries, etc., have been consulted and culled from. Also, the suggestions, opinions, and criticisms of friends, on words, phrases, and passages, have been duly considered, and sometimes adopted. It is not presumed that this Work is free from faults or errors. Infallibility is left for others to claim. Great care, however, has been exercised to make it as correct as possible.

Many thanks are due to particular friends who have rendered pecuniary aid, or friendly counsel, during the prosecution of this undertaking; also to subscribers to the first edition, to whom it has been issued in parts, for their aid, and patience in waiting so long for its completion, and also for their frequent words of encouragement during its slow progress. The Work was begun about seven years ago with rather diffident feelings, yet with reliance on Divine aid, and has been prosecuted under discouraging and embarrassing circumstances; but it is now completed with feelings of unfeigned gratitude to the Supreme Being for his goodness and providential supervision.

The Work is now sent forth to the public, to stand or fall on its own merits. True, it cannot boast of being the production of a council of learned men, as King James' version, but let it be remembered that TYNDALD alone, under very disadvantageous circumstances, did far more for the English Bible than that learned body, for they only followed in the wake of his labors.

This Volume, principally designed for the instruction and advantage of others, is now reverently committed to the blessing of our Father in the heavens, with an earnest and sincere desire that many of those who peruse its pages may be led by the knowledge, faith, and obedience inculcated therein, to obtain an inheritance in the aionian kingdom of Jesus the Anointed one.

HISTORY OF THE GREEK TEXT.

THE following condensed account of the different editions of the Greek New Testament, will introduce the reader to the history of the Greek Text, and the various steps taken by learned men for the purpose of editing it with greater critical accuracy. The history will commence with the first printed editions.

The first printed edition of the whole of the Greek New Testament was that contained in the Complutensian Polyglot; published by Francis XIMENES de CISNEROS. The principal editor of the work was Lopez de Stunica. It was printed in Greek and Latin, and completed January 10th, 1514. In consequence of the delay as to the publication of this edition (from 1514 to 1520) that of ERASMUS was commenced and completed, and was published in 1516, being the first edition published of the Greek New Testament. Like the Complutensian edition, this was also in Greek and Latin. The latter part of the book of Revelation being wanting in his MS. he supplied the same by translating the Latin Vulgate into Greek.

The Greek Manuscripts used for these two editions were few in number, of little critical value, and therefore do not possess much real authority. In 1535, Erasmus published his 5th edition, which is the basis of the common Text.*

In 1548, and again in 1549, ROBERT STEPHENS printed, at Paris, two beautiful small editions of the Greek New Testament; and in 1550 his folio edition with various readings from several Manuscripts—he collated some 15 MSS., but chiefly followed the Complutensian copy.

BEZA published five editions of the Greek Testament; the first in 1565, the last in 1598.

In 1624, the ELZEVIR, printers at Leyden, published a small and beautiful Greek Testament, the editor of which is wholly unknown. It differs little from Stephens' folio edition. The printers gave to this Text the name of "Textus Receptus."

In WALTON'S POLYGLOT of 1657, the Greek New Testament was given according to the Text of Stephens; and in the last volume there was a collection of various Readings from such MSS. as were then known. These various Readings, with some additions, were given in the Greek Testament, published by Bishop Fell, at Oxford, in 1675.

In 1707, Dr. MILL'S Greek Testament appeared. His Text is simply taken from Stephens' as given in Walton's Polyglot; his collection of various Readings was extensive, and these were made the ground for a critical amendment of the Text.

Dr. EDWARD WELLS published the first critical revision in parts at Oxford, between 1709 and 1719, with a translation and paraphrase.

BENGEI followed on in the same work and published his edition in 1734, and in his "Apparatus Criticus" he enlarged the stock of various Readings.

WETSTEIN published his Greek Testament in 1751-2, but only indicates in his inner margin, the few Readings which he preferred to those of the Elzevir edition. But in the collection of critical materials he did more than all his predecessors put together.

GRIESBACH, in critical labors, excels by far any who preceded him. He used the materials others had gathered. His first edition was commenced in 1776; his last completed in 1806. He combined the results of the collations of Birch, Matthæi and others, with those of Wetstein. In his Revision he often preferred the testimony of the older MSS. to the mass of modern copies.

Since the publication of Griesbach's Text, three or four other critical editions have been published, and have received the examination and approval of scholars. Of these, the edition of Scholz, has passed through numerous editions. His fundamental principle of criticism was, that the great majority of copies decide as to the correctness of the Text; hence, those who prefer the more ancient documents, will consider the Text of Griesbach preferable; while those whose judgment would favor the mass of testimonies, would prefer that of Scholz.

In addition to Scholz's collation, Lachmann, Tischendorf, Tregelles, &c., have given to the world the result of their critical labors, and which are acknowledged to be of the highest authority.

The number of MSS. now known, and which have been examined, is nearly 700; thus affording now a far better chance, to obtain a correct Greek Text than when the authorized version was at first published.

* Erasmus, in his third edition of 1523, inserted, the text, 1 John v. 7, on the authority of a MS. now in Dublin. Tyndale used this edition to revise his English version.

HISTORY OF ENGLISH VERSIONS.

THE first English version of the New Testament was that made by JOHN WICLIF, or WICLIFFE, about the year 1387. It was translated from the Latin Bible, verbatim, without any regard to the idiom of the languages. Though this version was first in point of time, no part of it was printed before the year 1731.

TYNDALE'S translation was published in 1526, either at Antwerp or Hamburg. It is commonly said that Tyndale translated from the Greek, but he never published it to be so on any title page of his Testament. One edition, not published by him, has this title—"The New Testament, dyligently corrected and compared with the Greke, by Wilyam Tyndale, and fynished in the yere of oure Lorde God, A. M. D. and xxxiiij. in the moneth of Nouember." It is evident he only translated from the Vulgate Latin.

COVERDALE published the whole Bible in English, in the year 1535. He followed his interpreters," and adopted Tyndale's version, with the exception of a few alterations.

MATTHEW'S BIBLE was only Tyndale and Coverdale's, published under the feigned name of Thomas Matthews.

HOLLYBUSHE'S NEW TESTAMENT was printed in 1538, "both in Latin and English, after the Vulgate text," to which Coverdale prefixed a dedication to Henry VIII.

THE GREAT BIBLE, published in 1539, purported to be "translated after the verye of the Hebrue and Greke textes," but it is certain that it was only a revision of Matthew's, with a few small alterations. It was named "the Great Bible," because of its large size.

CRANMER'S BIBLE, published in 1540, was essentially the same as the Great Bible, but to keep his name on account of a few corrections which he made in it.

THE GENEVA BIBLE was published at Geneva in 1560. The New Testament in 1557. Coverdale was one of the Geneva brethren who issued it.

THE BISHOPS' BIBLE was a revival of the English Bible, made by the bishops, and compared with the originals. It was published in 1568.

THE DOWAY BIBLE appeared in 1609, and was translated from the authentical Latin, or Vulgate.

KING JAMES' BIBLE, or the Authorized Version, was published in 1611. In the year 1604, forty-seven persons learned the languages, were appointed to revisé the translation then in use. They were ordered to use the Bishops' Bible as the basis of the new version, and to alter it as little as the original would allow; but if the prior translations of Tyndale, Coverdale, Matthew, Cranmer or Whitechurch, and the Geneva editors agreed better with the text, to adopt the same. This translation was perhaps the best that could be made at the time, and if it had not been published by kingly authority, it would not now be venerated by English and American protestants, as though it had come direct from God. It has been convicted of containing over 20,000 errors. Nearly 700 Greek MSS. are now known, and some of them very ancient; whereas the translators of the common version had only the advantage of some 8 MSS., none of which were earlier than the tenth century.

Since 1611, many translations of both Old and New Testaments, and portions of the same, have been published. The following are some of the most noted.

The Family Expositor: or a Paraphrase and Version of the New Testament, with Critical Notes. By Philip Doddridge. 1755.

The Four Gospels translated from the Greek. By George Campbell. 1790.

A New Literal Translation, from the Original Greek, of the Apostolical Epistles. By James Macknight. 1755.

A Translation of the New Testament. By Gilbert Wakefield. 1755.

A Translation of the New Testament, from the original Greek. Amplely illustrated by N. Daniel Beza, assisted by many of party and letters. c. 1738.

The New Testament in an Improved Version, upon the basis of Archbishop Newcome's New Translation, with a corrected Text. 1808.

The New Testament, in Greek and English; the Greek according to Beza: the English upon the basis of the fourth London edition of the Improved Version, with an attempt to further improvement from the manuscripts of Campbell, Wakefield, Beza, Macknight, and Thomson. By Adam Koenig. 1822.

A New Family Bible, and Improved Version, from corrected Texts of the Originals, with Notes Explained, &c. By H. Lighthood. 1825.

The Sacred Writings of the Apostles and Evangelists, translated from the Originals, by Campbell, Macknight, and Doddridge, with various Emendations by A. Campbell. 1825.

A New and Corrected Version of the New Testament. By E. Dickinson. 1825.

The Basis of the New Testament, a Critical Revision of the Text and True-Literary of Common Versions, with the aid of most ancient MSS. By George Payne. 1836.

The Holy Bible, with PLAGIAT emendations, By J. T. Campbell. 1841.

The Good News of our Lord Jesus, the Anointed; from the Critical Greek of Tittman. By N. N. Whiting. 1847.

A Translation of the New Testament, from the Syriac. By James Murdock. 1852.

Translation of Paul's Epistles. By Joseph Turnbull. 1854.

The New Testament, translated from Griesbach's Text. By Samuel Sharpe. 1850.

TO THE READER.

THAT "All Scripture, divinely inspired, is profitable for Teaching, for Conviction, for Correction, for THAT Instruction which is in Righteousness," is the truthful testimony of the Sacred Writings about themselves. We rejoice to express our conviction that the Word of God was perfect and infallible as it emanated from those holy men of old, the Prophets and Apostles, who "spoke, being moved by the Holy Spirit." As a revelation of Jehovah's will to the human race, it was requisite that it should be an unerring guide. Amid the ever conflicting strife of human opinions, and the endless diversity of thought, we needed such a standard, to lead us safely through the perplexing problems of life, to counsel us under all circumstances, to reveal the will of our Heavenly Parent, and to lift on high a celestial light, which streaming through the thick darkness that broods around, shall guide the feet of his erring and bewildered children to their loving Father's home. We needed therefore a testimony upon which to repose our faith and hope, free from all error, immutable, and harmonious in all its details—something to tell us how to escape from the evils of the present, and attain to a glorious future. With reverence and joy we acknowledge the Sacred Writings to be such, as they were originally dictated by the Holy Spirit. How important then that they should be correctly read and understood!

But can it be fairly said that such is the case with our present English Version? We opine not. Though freely acknowledging that it is sufficiently plain to teach men the social and religious duties of life, and the path to Immortality, yet it is a notable fact that King James' Translation is far from being a faithful reflection of the mind of the Spirit, as contained in the Original Greek in which the books of the New Testament were written. There are some thousands of words which are either mistranslated, or too obscurely rendered; besides others which are now obsolete, through improvement in the language. Besides this, it has been too highly colored in many places with the party ideas and opinions of those who made it, to be worthy of full and implicit confidence being placed in it as a genuine record. In the words of Dr. Macknight, "it was made a little too complaisant to the King, in favoring his notions of predestination, election, witchcraft, familiar spirits, and kingly rights, and these it "is probable were also the translators' opinions. That their translation is partial, speaking the language of, and giving authority to one sect." And according to Dr. Gell, it was wrested and partial, "and only adapted to one sect;" but he imputes this, not to the translators, but to those who employed them, for even some of the translators complained that they could not follow their own judgment in the matter, but were restrained by "reasons of state."

The Version in common use will appear more imperfect still, when the fact is known, that it was not a translation from the Original, but merely a revision of the Versions then in use. This is evident from the following directions given by King James to the translators, viz.: "The Bishops' Bible to be followed, and altered as little as the Original will permit. And these translations to be used when they agree better with the text than the Bishops' Bible—namely, Tyndal's, Matthew's, Coverdaie's, Whitechurch's, Geneva." None of these were made from the Original Greek, but only compared with it—being all translated from the Vulgate Latin. Hence it follows, that the authorized version is simply a revision of the Vulgate. And the Greek Text, with which it was compared, was compiled from Eight MSS. only, all of which were written since the tenth century, and are now considered of comparative slight authority. The "Textus Receptus," or Received Greek Text, was made from the 8 MSS., and is now proved to be a very worst Greek Text extant, in a printed form. And there was only one MS. for the Book of Revelation, and part of that wanting, which was supplied by translating the Latin of the Vulgate into Greek. Since the publication of the "Textus Receptus" and the Complutensian Version, some 600 MSS. have been discovered, some of which are very ancient, and very valuable. The best and oldest of these is now marked D, Cod. Bezae Cantabrigiae, No. 138, of the fourth and fifth centuries. The second marked A, Cod. Alexandrinus, of the fifth century. The third marked C, Cod. Ephesus, about the fifth century; and the fourth, marked B, Cod. Vaticanus, of the seventh century.

Besides valuable assistance from ancient MSS., the Discoverer has obtained material aid from the labors of many eminent Biblical Critics and Translators. Among these may be mentioned,—Mill, Wetstein, Griesbach, Scholz, Lachmann, Tischendorf, Tittmann, Trevesius, Doddridge, Macknight, Campbell, Hens, Middleton, Clark, Wakefield, Bromfield, Thompson, Munroe, Kennell, Beetham, Croft, Sharp, Gassner, Turnhill, Trench, &c., &c.

Should any person doubt the propriety of the Translation, in any particular part, let him to that part pause or condemn it, till he has compared it carefully with the various authorities on which it is based; and even should he see reason to differ in some respects, a correct Greek Text is given, so that the Original may be always appealed to in cases of doubt. However imperfect the Translation may be considered by the critic, it cannot adulterate the Original.

PLAN OF THE WORK.

1. Greek Text and Interlineary Translation.—The left hand column contains the GREEK TEXT according to Dr. J. J. Griesbach, and interlined with it a LITERAL WORD-FOR-WORD TRANSLATION, wherein the corresponding English is placed directly under each Greek word.

The Sectional Divisions are those of the Vatican and Alexandrian MSS. Greek Words enclosed in brackets (thus,) though authorized by Griesbach, are omitted by the Vat. MS.

The advantages to be derived from such an arrangement must be apparent to the Bible Student. The learned have a Greek Text acknowledged to be one of the best extant, while the unlearned have almost an equal chance with those acquainted with the Original, by having the meaning and grammatical construction given to each word. This part of the work will be a desideratum by many, but more adapted for criticism than reading. Although by adhering to the arrangement of the Original, the Translation may appear uncouth, yet the strength and beauty of many passages are thereby preserved.

The frequent recurrence of the Greek article of emphasis, and an occasional ellipsis, often interfere with the sense and elegance of a sentence, but this cannot well be avoided in a word-for-word Translation. The advantages, however, accruing to the diligent investigator of the Divine Word by pursuing this plan are many, and will be duly appreciated.

2. New Version.—The column on the right hand side of the page is a NEW VERSION for general reading. This rendering is based upon that in the left hand column, and the labors of many talented Critics and Translators of the Scriptures. The Readings of the oldest Manuscripts now known are sometimes incorporated and always referred to. In this column the EMPHATIC SIGNS are introduced, by which the Greek Words of Emphasis are designated. For the use and beauty of this arrangement, the reader is requested to examine the annexed remarks on Signs of Emphasis.

The Chapters and Verses of the Common Version have been retained, principally for convenience of reference. The reader however, by following the paragraphs in the opposite column, need not be governed by these arbitrary divisions. Chapters and Verses were not introduced till the middle of the 16th century.

3. Foot Notes and References.—The various Readings of the Vatican MS., Notes for the elucidation of the text, and References, are introduced at the bottom of the page. The Notes are critical, illustrative, explanatory, and suggestive. Old Testament quotations are always referred to, and copious parallel passages in the New.

4. Appendix.—It is intended to add an Appendix to the Work, containing all the Geographical and Proper Names used in the New Testament, with Words and Phrases intimately connected with doctrinal subjects, alphabetically arranged. These will be critically examined, and the light of Biblical science thrown upon such as have given rise to sectarian disputes, and the cavils of infidels.

SIGNS OF EMPHASIS.

The Greek article often finds its equivalent in the English definite article the, but in the majority of cases it is evidently only a mark of emphasis. It frequently precedes a substantive, an adjective, a verb, an adverb, a participle or a particle, thus pointing out the emphatic words. The Greek article and emphatic Pronouns exercise a most important influence on the meaning of words, and sometimes throw light on doctrines of the highest interest. The sacred penmen of the New Testament were, in the opinion of many eminent persons, guided by Divine inspiration in the choice of their words; and in the use of the Greek article there was clearly a remarkable discretion displayed. In fact, the Signs of Emphasis are incorporated with the words in such a manner, that the latter cannot be stated without conveying at the same time to the intelligent mind an idea of the very intonation with which the sentence was spoken when it was written down. This peculiarity of the Greek language cannot be properly expressed in English except by the use of typographical signs; such as, Initial Capital letters, italics, SMALL CAPITALS, and CAPITALS.

The Common Version of the New Testament fails to give the reader a full conception of the meaning denoted to be conveyed by the Greek original, in regard—

1st. To those Words which are connected with the Greek Article;

2d. To those Pronouns Substantive which are intended to carry in themselves a peculiar emphasis; and,

3d. To those Adjectives and Pronouns which obtain a comparative importance, by reason of the position which they occupy in the Greek Text, with reference to some other words.

To remedy these deficiencies, the following System of Notation is employed in the English column of the DIAGRAM.

1. Those Words rendered positively emphatic by the presence of the Greek article, are printed in Small Capitals; as, "THE LIFE WAS THE LIGHT OF MEN."

2. Those Pronouns Substantive which, in the Greek, are intended to be positively emphatic are printed in Black Letters; as, "It must increase, but I must decrease."

3. Those Adjectives and Pronouns which in the Greek are comparatively emphatic, as indicated by their position, are printed with an Initial Capital Letter; as, "One Body, and One Spirit, even as ye are called in One Hope of your CALLING."

4. All Greek Substantives, as being of more importance than other words, are also commenced with a Capital Letter.

By adopting these Signs of Emphasis, it is believed certainly and intensely are given to passages where they occur, as well as creativity and substance to the discrepancies in which they are found; thus rendering the reader, a viewer, as it were, of the life-words of Him "who spoke as never man spoke," or which were enunciated by His Inspired apostles.

LETTERS AND PRONUNCIATION OF THE GREEK ALPHABET.

A α	Alpha	a	. ACCENTS are said to sometimes assist the reader to discriminate between words which are alike in form, but different in meaning; but as they are by no means necessary, either for the pronouncing or understanding of the Greek language, and as the earliest of all the manuscripts of the Greek Testament is without accents, it has been thought best to omit them in the DIACRITIC, leaving the sense, in doubtful cases, to be determined by the context. If accents favor a particular sense, it may be an erroneous one, and then they are injurious; and if they do not favor any particular sense, then they are unnecessary. PRONUNCIATION.—Considerable discrepancy of opinion prevails among the learned concerning the proper sound of some of these letters, and as it is impossible at this distance of time to ascertain the mode of pronunciation among the ancient Greeks, the simplest plan is to consider each Greek letter as corresponding in sound to its correlative letter in our own alphabet, as shown in the Table.
B β	Beta	b
Γ γ	Gamma	g hard, as in begin
Δ δ	Delta	d
E ε	Epsilon	e short, as in met
Z ζ	Zeta	z
H η	Eta	e long, as in keen
Θ θ	Theta	th
I ι	Iota	i
K κ	Kappa	k
Λ λ	Lambda	l
M μ	Mu	m
N ν	Nu	n
Ξ ξ	Xi	x
O ο	Omicron	o short, as in lot
Π π	Pi	p
Ρ ρ	Rho	r
Σ σ, final s	Sigma	s
Τ τ	Tau	t
Υ υ	Upsilon	u
Φ φ	Phi	ph
Χ χ	Chi	ch hard, as in chord
Ψ ψ	Psi	ps
Ω ω	Omega	o long, as in throne.

The LETTERS are divided into seven vowels and seventeen consonants.

The VOWELS are ε, ο, short; η, ω, long; and α, ι, υ, doubtful.

DIPHTHONGS are formed of two vowels joined together, and are twelve in number; six proper, αι, αυ, ει, ευ, οι, ου and six improper, α, ρ, φ, ηυ, ωυ, υι. The little stroke under α, ρ, φ, standing for Iota subscript, is not sounded, but merely serves to show the derivation.

The LABIALS, (π, β, φ,) the PALATALS, (κ, γ, χ,) and the DENTALS, (τ, δ, θ,) are named according to the organs of articulation employed in pronouncing them. To each of these classes belongs a double letter, so called because combining the sound of s with that of another consonant; thus, the Labials, πs, βs, φs, are equal to ψ, the Palatals, κs, γs, χs, to ξ and the Dentals, τs, δs, to ζ.

The letter ν can stand only before Dentals; before Labials it becomes μ before the liquids, (λ, μ, ν, ρ,) assimilation takes place, so that before λ it becomes λ, before ρ it becomes ρ, &c. Before Palatals ν is converted into γ but observe, that whenever γ is found before another γ, or either of the other Palatals, it is always pronounced like π; thus αγγελος (angel) is pronounced gelos, not aggelos.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS ON GRAMMAR.

Every word having a vowel or diphthong for the first letter is, in most printed books, marked at the beginning either with an aspirate, or rough breathing, (´), as ἡλιος, (sun), pronounced as if written helios; or with a smooth one, (ˊ), as ἐπι, (upon), simply read epi. The former one of these breathings is only of necessary use, and may be considered as having the force of the English letter h. The aspirate is placed over ρ and υ when they stand at the beginning of a word; thus ῥοδον, (a rose), pronounced rhodon. In diphthongs the breathing is placed over the second vowel; thus υἱος, (a son), pronounced why-os. When ρ is doubled, the last one takes the aspirate, as ἐρῳωσο, pronounced errhosso.

Words in Greek are of eight kinds, called Parts of Speech; viz., Article, Noun, Pronoun, Verb, Participle, Adverb, Preposition, and Conjunction.

The Article, Noun, Pronoun, and Participle, are declined with Gender, Number, and Case.

There are three Genders; the Masculine, Feminine and Neuter.

There are two Numbers; the Singular, which speaks of one, as λογος, a word; and the Plural, which speaks of more than one, as λογοι, words.

To these the Greeks added a third number, called the Dual, which only speaks of two, but this number was not much used, and is not found either in the Septuagint, or New Testament.

There are five Cases; the Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accusative, and Vocative.

The Article δ, ἡ, το, generally answers to the definite article the in English. When no article is expressed in Greek, the English indefinite article a is signified. Thus ανθρωπος means a man, or man in general; and δ ανθρωπος, the man. It is thus declined:

SINGULAR.				PLURAL.
	Masc.	Fem.	Neut.	-		Masc.	Fem.	Neut.
Nom.	δ,	ἡ,	το,	the.	Nom.	οἱ,	αἱ,	τα,	the.
Gen.	του,	της,	του,	of the.	Gen.	των,	των,	των,	of the.
Dat.	τω,	τη,	τω,	to the.	Dat.	τοις,	ταις,	τοις,	to the.
Acc.	τον,	την,	το,	the.	Acc.	τους,	τας,	τα,	the.

The Article has no vocative; ω, which sometimes precedes a noun in the vocative, is an Interjection.

The Article takes the consonant τ in every Case, except in the nom. sin. masc. and fem. δ, ἡ, and in the nom. pl. masc. and fem. οἱ, αἱ, where the τ is superseded by the aspirate (´).

The gen. pl. in all genders and in every declension, ends in ων.

The Personal or Primitive Pronouns are three; ἐγω, I, plural ἡμεῖς, we, of the first person; συ, thou, plural ὑμεῖς, you, of the second; οὗ, he or she, plural σφεις, they, of the third.

The Relative Pronouns are οὗ, ἡ, δ, who, which, and αυτο, αυτη, he, she, it, &c., &c., &c.

To those who are unacquainted with Greek, the foregoing remarks will give some, though perhaps but little satisfaction. If a further knowledge is desired, the reader had better procure a Grammar. A very good book to commence with has been published by Bagster & Sons, London, entitled, "A Practical Guide to the first Study of the Greek Testament," designed for those who have no knowledge of the Greek language.

The word “repent” does not express the force of the original; which signifies a change of character, a permanent alteration of the dispositions and habits. The same remark may be applied to the noun of the same meaning in verse 8.—Gannett. 3. Basileia means kingly power, authority, royal dignity, majesty, &c., as well as kingdom, realm, or reign. The prophet Daniel uses kings and kingdoms synonymously, (Dan. ii. 46); so also the evangelists. See Matt. xxi. 5, 9; Mark xi. 9, 10; Luke ix. 38; and Zech. ix. 9. John’s mission was “to go before the face of the Lord, to prepare his ways,” (Luke i. 78); and to point out the Messiah. See John i. 6–8, 29–31, 34; Acts xiii. 24, 25. Therefore he called on the people to “Reform, because the Majesty of the heavens (God’s Anointed) has come.”

CHAP. IV.

1 Then JESUS was conducted by the SPIRIT into the DESERT, to be tempted by the ENEMY.

2 And after fasting forty Days and forty Nights,
he was hungry.

3 Then the TEMPTER
approaching him, said;
“If thou be a Son of GOD, command that these STONES become Loaves.”

4 But HE answering,
said; “It is written,
† “MAN shall not live by Bread only, but by Every Word proceeding from the Mouth of God.”

5 Then the ENEMY conducts him into the HOLY City, and places him on the BATTLEMENT of the TEMPLE,

6 and says to him, “If thou be a Son of GOD, cast thyself down; for it is written, † ‘He will give his ANGELS charge of thee; they shall uphold thee on their Hands, lest thou strike thy FOOT against a Stone.’”

7 JESUS answered;
“Again, it is written,
† ‘Thou shalt not try the Lord thy GOD.’”

8 Again, the ENEMY takes him to a very high Mountain, and shows him
ALL the KINGDOMS of the † WORLD, and the GLORY of them;

9 and says to him;
“All these will I give thee, if prostrating thou wilt worship me.”

10 Then Jesus says to him; “Get thee behind me, Adversary; for it is written, † ‘Thou shalt worship the Lord thy GOD, and him only shalt thou serve.’”

11 Then the ENEMY
leaves him; and behold Angels came and ministtered to him.

$\dagger$  1. Some particular mountain in the neighborhood of Capernaum is generally supposed to be here intended, probably Mount Tabor, or an elevation well known in that vicinity.  $\dagger$  3. Wetstein thinks this phrase ought to be construed—"Happy in the Spirit's account are the poor;" and Geo. Campbell renders it—"Happy the poor who reprove not." Both do violence to the original. The former interferes with the arrangement of the words, and the latter paraphrases rather than translates. In Luke vi. 20, we have the sentence just as our Lord uttered it; but here it seems Matthew explains the metaphor, parenthetically, by adding "in spirit." So in verses 6 and 8. For a further illustration, see James ii. 5. The article and noun is in the dative case, and conveys the same meaning as our preposition in.

† 13. Perhaps allusion is here made to a bituminous and fragrant species of salt, found at the Lake Asphaltites; see at quantities of which were thrown by the priests over the sacrifices, to counteract the smell of the burning flesh, and to hasten its consumption. This substance, however, was easily damaged by exposure to the atmosphere; and the portion of it thus rendered unfit for the purpose to which it was ordinarily applied, was strewed upon the pavement of the temple, to prevent slipping in wet weather. Maurell, in his travels, states that he tasted some that had entire-ly lost its savor.—Trollope. † 15. The modius was a measure, both among the Greeks and Romans, containing a little less than a peck; but it is clear that nothing here depends upon the capacity of the measure.

† 21. The Jews had a Common Court consisting of twenty-three men, which had power to sentence criminals to death, by beheading or strangling; this was called the Judgment, or Court of Judges. The Sanhedrim or High Council consisted of seventy-two men, being the Court of the Jews, before which the highest crimes were tried. This Court alone had power to punish with death by stoning. This was thought a more terrible death than the former.

† 33. The morality of the Jews in regard to oaths was truly execrable. They maintained that a man might swear with his lips, and annul it at the same moment in his heart. They also held that oaths are binding only according to the nature of the thing by which a man swears; asserting that the law, which our Savior here cites, referred to those oaths on y which were of a binding nature. Instances of this distinction, which they made between oaths that were and were not binding, are expressly cited and condemned by our Lord in Matt. xxiii. 16—22; and the injunction here given against swearing by Heaven, by Jerusalem, &c., is in relation to a variety of frivolous adjurations which were constantly in their mouths.

CHAPTER VI.

1 Beware, that you perform not your RELIGIOUS DUTIES before MEN, in order to be OBSERVED by them; otherwise, you will obtain no Reward from THAT FATHER of yours in THE HEAVENS.

2 When, therefore, thou † givest Alms, proclaim it not by t sound of trumpet, as the HYPOCRITES do, in the ASSEMBLIES and in the STREETS; that they may be extolled by MEN.
Indeed, I say to you, They have their REWARD.

3 But thou, when giving Alms, let not thy LEFT hand know what thy RIGHT hand does;

4 so that THINE ALMS may be PRIVATE; and THAT FATHER of thine, who SEES in SECRET, will recompense thee.

5 And when * you pray, you shall not imitate the HYPOCRITES, for they are fond of standing up in the ASSEMBLIES and at the CORNERS of the OPEN SQUARES to pray, so as to be OBSERVED by MEN.
Indeed, I say to you, They have their REWARD.

wouldst pray, enter into thy PRIVATE ROOM, and having closed the DOOR, pray to THAT FATHER of thine who is INVISIBLE;

thine, who SEES in SE-

† 32. The following extract from "Hackett's Tour in the Holy Land," will serve as an illustration.—"COUNTRY OF THE GADARENES.—I spent a night, and part of two days, in the vicinity of the Lake of Tiberias. My tent was pitched near the Hot Sulphur, about a mile south of the town of Tiberias, and, consequently, near the south end of the lake. In looking across the water to the other side, I had before me the country of the Gadarenes, where the swine, impelled by an evil spirit, plunged into the sea. I was struck with a mark of accuracy in the sacred writers, which had never occurred to me till then. They state that 'the swine ran violently down the steep place or precipice,' (the article being required by the Greek,) 'and were choked in the waters.' It is implied here, first, the hills in that region approach near the water; and, second, y, that they fall off so abruptly along the shore, that it would be natural for a writer, familiar with that fact, to refer to it as well known. Both these implications are correct. A mass of rocky hills overlook the sea on that side, so near the water, that one sees their dark outline reflected from its surface, while their sides, in general, are so steep, that a person familiar with the scenery would hardly think of speaking of a steep place or precipice, where so much of the coast forms but one continuous precipice. Our translators omit the definite article, and show, by this inadvertence, how naturally the more exact knowledge of the Evangelists influenced their language."

26 And the REPORT of this [miracle] went forth through All that REGION.

27 And JESUS passing from thence, Two Blind men followed, exclaiming, "O Son of David, have compassion on us!"

28 And being come into the HOUSE, the BLIND men came to him; and JESUS says to them, "Do you believe That I can do this?" They reply to him, "Yes, Master."

29 Then he touched their EYES, saying, "Be it done to you according to your FAITH."

30 And Their EYES were opened; and JESUS strictly charged them, saying, "See that you inform no one."

31 But THEY, having departed, spread his fame through All that LAND.

32 Now, as these men were going out, behold, † there was brought to him a Dumb man, being demonized.

33 And the DEMON having been expelled, the DUMB man spoke, and the PEOPLE were astonished, saying, "Never was it thus seen in ISRAEL!"

CHAPTER XII.

<sup>1</sup> At That TIME † JESUS on the † SABBATH went through the FIELDS of GRAIN; and his DISCIPLES were hungry, and began to pluck off Ears of Grain, and to eat.

<sup>2</sup> Now the PHARISEES, observing, said to him, "Behold, thy DISCIPLES are doing what is not lawful to do on a Sabbath."

<sup>3</sup> But HE said to them, † Have you not read what David did, when * he was hungry, and THOSE who were with him?

<sup>4</sup> how he † entered into the TABERNACLE of GOD, and ate the LOAVES of the PRESENCE, which were not lawful for him to eat, nor for THOSE who were with him, but for the PRIESTS alone?

<sup>5</sup> † Or, have you not read in the LAW, that † the PRIESTS in the TEMPLE profane the REST to be observed on the SABBATHS and are blameless?

<sup>6</sup> But I say to you,

† 1. SABBATH—with us, Saturday, or rather Friday at sun-set to Saturday at sun-set, for so the Jews reckoned. † 4. By comparing 1 Sam. xxi. 1—6, and Lev. xxiv. 5—9, it will appear that this also transpired on a Sabbath. † 5. From Num. xxviii. 9, it appears that two additional lambs were sacrificed on the Sabbath, by which the ordinary work of the week was doubled. Compare Exod. xxix. 38.

7 If, then, you had known what this is; † 'I desire Compassion, and 'not a Sacrifice,' you would not have condemned the INNOCENT;

8 for the SON OF MAN is Master of the SABBATH."

9 † And having left that place, he went into their SYNAGOGUE;

10 and behold, there was a Man who had * a withered Hand. They asked JESUS, with a design to accuse him, † "Is it lawful to heal on the SABBATH?"

11 And HE answered them, "What Man is there among you, who, having one Sheep, † if it fall into a pit on the SABBATH, will not lay hold on it, and lift it out?"

12 Does not a Man greatly surpass a Sheep? Therefore, it is lawful to do good on the SABBATH."

13 Then he says to the MAN, "Stretch out Thine HAND." And he stretched it out; and it was restored to soundness, like the other.

14 Then the PHARISEES, departing, held a Council concerning him, how they might destroy him.

15 But JESUS knowing it, withdrew from them, and * many followed him, and he healed them all;

† 48. To suppose that our Lord here intends to put any slight on his mother would be very absurd; he only took the opportunity of expressing his affection to his obedient disciples in a peculiarly endearing manner; which could not but be a great comfort to them, it appears from Luke viii. 3, Susanna, Joanna, Mary Magdalene, and others were then with him. † 4. The ordinary roads or paths in the East lead often along the edge of the fields, which are unenclosed. 18 Ὑμεις ουν ακουσατε την παραβολην του
You therefore hear the parable of the σπειροντος. 19 Παντος ακουοντος τον λογον sower. Any one hearing the word

της βασιλειας, και μη συνιεντος, ερχεται ο of the kingdom, and not understanding, comes the πονηρος, και αρπαζει το εσπαριμενον εν τη καρδια wicked (one,) and snatches that having been sown in the heart αυτου ο̅τος εστιν, ο̅ παρα την οδον σπαρεις.

of him; this is, that on the path being sown.

20 Ὁ δε επι τα πετρωδη σπαρεις, ο̅τος εστιν,
That but on the rocky ground being sown, this is,

ο̅ τον λογον ακουων και ευθυς μετα χαρας who the word hearing and forthwith with joy λαμβανων αυτον. 21 ουκ εχει δε ριζαν εν εαυτω, receiving it; not he has but a root in himself,

αλλα προσκαιρος εστι γενομενης δε θλιψεως η
but transient is; arising and trial or διωγμου δια τον λογον, ευθυς σκανδαλιζεται.

persecution through the word, immediately he is offended.

22 Ὁ δε εις τας ακανθας σπαρεις, ο̅τος εστιν,
That but into the thorns being sown, this is,

ο̅ τον λογον ακουων, και η̅ μεριμνα του αιωνος who the word hearing, and the care of the age

τουτου, και η̅ απατη του πλουτου συμπνιγει
this, and the delusion of the riches chokes

τον λογον και ακαρπος γινεται. 23 Ὁ δε επι the word; and unfruitful becomes. That but on την γην την καλην σπαρεις, ο̅τος εστιν, ο̅ τον the ground the good being sown, this is, who the λογον ακουων, και συνιων ο̅ς δη καρποφορει, word hearing, and understanding; who really bears fruit,

'HE is stupified; they
'hear heavily with their
'EARS, and their EYES
'they close; lest seeing
'with their EYES, and
'hearing with their EARS,
'and comprehending with
'their MIND, they should
'retrace their steps, and
'I should restore them.'

16 † But blessed are Your EYES, because they see; and EARS, because they hear.

17 For indeed I say to you, † That Many Prophets and Righteous men have desired to see what you behold, but have not seen; and to hear what you hear, but have not heard.

18 † Understand you, therefore the PARABLE of the SOWER.

19 When any one hears the † word of the KING-DOM, but considers it not,
the EVIL one comes and snatches away THAT having been sown in his HEART. This explains
THAT which was sown
by the ROAD.

20 THAT which was sown on ROCKY GROUND, denotes him, WHO HEAR-ING the WORD, receives
it immediately with Joy;

21 yet, it having no
Root in his mind, he as-tains it only a short time;
for when Affliction or Persecution arises, on account of the WORD, he instantly stumbles.

22 THAT which was sown among THORNS, denotes THAT HEARER, in whom the CARES of *the AGE and the DECEPTIVE-NESS of RICHES, choke
the WORD, and render it unproductive.

* VATICAN MANUSCRIPT.—28. And THEY say to him.

† 25. A plant which bears a striking resemblance to wheat. The following remarks by H. B. Hackett, will fully illustrate this.—"In passing through the fertile country of the ancient Philistines, on the south of Palestine, I asked the guide, one day, a native Syrian, if he knew of a plant which was apt to make its appearance among the wheat, and which resembled it so much that it could hardly be distinguished from it. He replied that it was very common, and that he would soon show me a specimen of it. Soon after this he pointed out to me some of this grass, growing near our path; and afterwards, having once seen it, I found it in almost every field where I searched for it. Except that the stalk was not so high, it appeared otherwise precisely like wheat, just as the ears begin to show themselves, and the kernels are swelling out into shape. I collected some specimens of this deceitful weed, and have found, on showing them to friends, that they have mistaken them quite invariably for some species of grain, such as wheat or barley."

15 He says to them, "But who do you say that I am?"

16 Simon Peter answer- ing, said, † "Thou art the CHRIST, the son of the LIVING God."

17 And Jesus answer- ing, said to him; "Happy art thou, Simon, son of Jonah; for FLESH and BLOOD has not revealed this to thee, but THAT FATHER of mine in the * Heavens.

18 Moreover, I also say to thee, That thou art † a Rock, and on † this ROCK I will build My CHURCH; and † the Gates of Hades shall not triumph over it.

† 13. This town was near to the spring-head of the Jordan, and was built by Philip, tetrarch of Galilee, in honor of Tiberius Caesar; and to distinguish it from the sea-port town of Caesarea, mentioned frequently in the Acts of the Apostles, it was called Caesarea Philippi. See Josephus, Ant. xviii. 2, 1, and xx. 8, 4.

† 18. Parkhurst says, "This expression seems allusive to the form of the Jewish sepulchres, which were large subterraneous caves, with a narrow mouth or entrance, many of which are to be found in Judea, to this day. The LXX render the corresponding phrase from the Heb. of Isa. xxviii. 16, the gates of the sepulchre. The full meaning of our Lord's promise seems to be, that his church on earth, how- ever persecuted and distressed, should never fail till the consummation of all things, and should then, at the resurrection of the just, finally triumph over death and the grave." Compare 1 Cor. xv. 54, 55.

† 19. It is said, that when the Jews made a man a doctor of the law, they used to put into his hands the key of the closet in the temple, where the sacred books were deposited, and also tablets to write upon; signifying that they gave him author- ity to teach and to explain the scriptures and law of God to the people.

Scott refers to Jos. Ant. xviii. 1, to show that the Jews continued to send the same sum every year, wherever they lived; which Philo too particularly mentions, de Monarch. li. 635, ed. col. "Sums of money, on account of the Jews, were carried every year out of Italy and all your provinces to Jerusalem." Cic. pro Flac. 8. † 12. A highly figurative mode of expression, similar to what is found in Matt. v. 29, 30; xviii. 8, 9. The annihilation of the desire, not of the member, is here intended, as is evident from the two species of eunuchs previously mentioned. It was so understood by Justin Martyr, Chrysostom, Tertullian, &c., except Origen, who not only interpreted the words literally, but is said to have exemplified them upon himself.—See Analeceta Theologica.

9. PRE-

† 5. Christ's triumphant entry into Jerusalem riding on an ass, has been objected to as mean and ridiculous, but it ought to be remembered that this circumstance was an exact fulfillment of Ezek. ix. 9, and exemplified at the same time his strict observance of the divine law. Eastern asses are much larger and more beautiful than ours, and kings and patriarchs did not disdain to ride on them. Compare Gen. xxii. 3; Exod. iv. 20; Num. xxii. 21; Judges v. 10; x. 4; 2 Sam. xvi. 2; xvii. 23; xix. 26; 1 Kings i. 33, 34. When Solomon and succeeding princes multiplied horses they were rebuked by the prophets, and chastised by God for it. See Isa. ii. 6, 7; xxxi. 1; Hos. xiv. 8. Compare also Hos. i. 7; Micah v. 10, 11; Zech. ix. 10. † 9. Hosanna, is a Hebrew word, signifying, "Save, we beseech thee!" and in this place is similar to the French "vive le roi," or the English "God save the king." "Hosanna to the son of David," is equivalent to "God preserve the son of David."

† 83. Leenon, wine-press, is the word used by Matthew, while Aspoleonion, wine-vat, is used by Mark, ch. xii. 1. Dr. Robinson saw a wine-press at Irbib, which was hewn out of a rock, and divided into two parts. The upper and more shallow part was the place where the grapes were put, the lower and deeper one was the place for receiving the liquid pressed out of them. These two places served for both wine-press and wine-vat. This fact will serve to illustrate the words of Jesus as recorded by the two historians.

9. PRE-

† 5. Christ's triumphant entry into Jerusalem riding on an ass, has been objected to as mean and ridiculous, but it ought to be remembered that this circumstance was an exact fulfillment of Ezek. ix. 9, and exemplified at the same time his strict observance of the divine law. Eastern asses are much larger and more beautiful than ours, and kings and patriarchs did not disdain to ride on them. Compare Gen. xxii. 3; Exod. iv. 20; Num. xxii. 21; Judges v. 10; 1 Sam. xvi. 2; xvii. 23; xix. 26; 1 Kings i. 33, 34. When Solomon and succeeding princes multiplied horses they were rebuked by the prophets, and chastised by God for it. See Isa. ii. 6, 7; xxxi. 1; Hos. xiv. 3. Compare also Hos. i. 7; Micah v. 10, 11; Zech. ix. 10.

† 9. Hosanna, is a Hebrew word, signifying, "Save, we beseech thee!" and in this place is similar to the French "riche roi," or the English "God save the king." "Hosanna to the son of David," is equivalent to "God preserve the son of David."

And HE answering, said, 'I will not;' but afterwards repenting, he went.

81 Which of the two performed the FATHER'S WILL? They say, "The * LATTER." JESUS said to them, † "Indeed, I say to you, That the TRIBUTE-TAKERS and the HARLOTS precede you into the KINGDOM of God.

82 For † John came to you in a Way of Righteousness, and you believed him not; but the TRIBUTE-TAKERS and the HARLOTS believed him; yet you, having seen it, did not afterwards repent, so as to BELIEVE him.

34 And when the VINTAGE approached, he sent his SERVANTS to the CULTIVATORS, to receive the FRUITS.

35 But the † CULTIVATORS having seized his SERVANTS, severely beat one, and murdered another, and stoned another.

36 Again, he sent Other Servants, more honorable than the FIRST, and they treated them in a similar manner.

37 Finally, † he sent his SON to them, saying, 'They will respect my SON.'

38 But the CULTIVATORS seeing the SON, said among themselves, 'This is the HEIR; † come, let us kill him, and forcibly hold the INHERITANCE.'

† 83. Λεπον, wine-press, is the word used by Matthew, while υπολευσιον, wine-vat, is used by Mark, ch. xii. 1. Dr. Robinson saw a wine-press at Irbet, which was hewn out of a rock, and divided into two parts. The upper and more shallow part was the place where the grapes were put, the lower and deeper one was the place for receiving the liquid pressed out of them. These two places served for both wine-press and wine-vat. This fact will serve to illustrate the words of Jesus as recorded by the two historians.

Their acceptance of this coin when offered to them in payment, was in effect a confession that they were conquered by the Romans, and that the emperor had a right to their tribute.

† 23. This is rendered future life by some modern translators; which is, as Dr. Bloomfield very justly observes, "no version at all, but merely an explanation." Assuetudo can only mean future life, by implication; its primary signification being a standing or rising up. If a future life be understood by the term, then it evidently depends upon, and follows a resurrection.

† 35. There are a variety of opinions among critics, as to who is here meant. Some think it is the Zechariah, son of Jehoiadab, mentioned in 2 Chron. xxiv. 20, 21; but this leaves the Jews innocent of the blood shed during nearly nine centuries of the most scandalous years of their history. Others think reference is here made to "Zechariah, the son of Berechiah and the grandson of Iddo," Zech. i. 1; of whose murder mention is made in the Targum, or Chaldee paraphrase of Jonathan Ben-Uziel, (said to be a cotemporary of Jesus Christ.) In reply to this complaint of Jeremiah, (Lam. ii. 30.) "Shall the priest and the prophet be slain in the sanctuary of the Lord?" he says, "Was it well in you to slay a prophet as you did Zechariah, the son of Hiddo, in the House of the Lord's sanctuary, because he endeavored to withdraw you from your evil ways?" This Zechariah lived some 330 years after the one previously mentioned, yet a period of over 500 years of Jewish history is left out. Were not the Jews more responsible for innocent blood shed during the last preceding five centuries of their history, than they could be for blood shed before the deluge? Others are of opinion that Jesus spoke this prophetically of that Zechariah who was massacred "in the middle of the holy place," three years before the final destruction of Jerusalem. Of him, Josephus says, he was a just man. Thus Abel was the first, and this Zechariah, the last just person, whose blood being spilt upon the land, should be required of that generation. This view agrees with the context, and recorded facts; and in agreement with the same, ephoneusate, a word in the first aorist tense, has been thrown into the future, instead of the past.

† 1. Virgins signifies a chaste or pure person, and is applied to both sexes in the sacred writings. See Rev. xiv. 4. It has been thought best to retain the word here. † 1. An eye-witness of a Hindoo marriage, gives the following striking illustration of this custom:—"The bride lived at Serampore, to which place the bridegroom was to come by water. After waiting two or three hours, at length, near midnight, it was announced in the very words of Scripture, 'Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him.' All the persons employed now lighted their lamps, and ran with them in their hands to fill up their stations in the procession; some of them had lost their lights, and were unprepared, but it was then too late to seek them, and the cavalcade moved forward to the house of the bride; at which place the company entered a large and splendidly illuminated area, before the house, covered with an awning, where a great multitude of friends, dressed in their best apparel, were seated upon mats. The bridegroom was carried in the arms of a friend, and placed in a superb seat in the midst of the company, where he sat a short time, and then went into the house, the door of which was immediately shut, and guarded by sepoy. I and others expostulated with the door-keepers, but in vain. Never was I so struck with our Lord's beautiful parable as at this moment—"And the door was shut."

† 40. That is, in the fire mentioned in verse 41. The Common Version, and many modern ones, render kolasis aionion, everlasting punishment, conveying the idea, as generally interpreted, of basinos, torment. Kolasis in its various forms only occurs in three other places in the New Testament.—Acts iv. 21; † Peter II. 9; † 1 John iv. 18. It is derived from kolazo, which signifies, 1. To cut off; as lopping off branches of trees, to prune. 2. To restrain, to repress. The Greeks write,—"The charioteer (kalasei) restrains his fiery steeds." 3. To chastise, to punish. To cut off an individual from life, or society, or even to restrain, is esteemed as punishment;—hence has arisen this third metaphorical use of the word. The primary signification has been adopted, because it agrees better with the second member of the sentence, thus preserving the force and beauty of the antithesis. The righteous go to life the wicked to the cutting off from life, or death. See † Thess. I. 9.

The Romans, who had a strong guard in the castle of Antonia, which overlooked the temple, divided the night into four watches, beginning at six, nine, twelve, and three. Mark xii. 45, alludes to this division of time. The two last watches were both called cock-crowings. The Romans relieved guard at each watch by sound of trumpet: the trumpet of the third watch was called the first, and that of the fourth the second cock. And when it was said the cock crew, the meaning is, that the trumpet of the third watch sounded; which always happened at midnight.

 Then the high-priest rent the clothes of him, deserting him, fled.

57 † And THOSE who AP-PREHENDED JESUS, conducted him to Caiaphas

 it, though † Many false-

 answering, said to him,

64 Jesus says to him,
 "Thou hast said; moreover I declare to you, † Hereafter you shall see the SON of MAN sitting on the Right hand of POWER, and coming on the CLOUDS of HEAVEN."

† 61. A solemn adjuration, which a Jew was bound to answer. Lev. v. 1. After such an adjuration by a magistrate or superior, the answer returned was an answer in oath; a false answer was perjury, and even the silence of the person adjured was not deemed innocent. Hence it was that the high-priest had recourse to this measure upon our Lord's disclaiming to answer the unfounded accusations which were brought against him, from the conviction that his judges were predetermined, and that every thing he could say would be of no avail.

† 68. In this insulting taunt there seems to be an indirect sneer at the popular belief in our Lord's Messianahship; which is rendered still more apparent by the sarcastic use of the word prophetecia. This word is sometimes used generally in relation to things unknown, so as to correspond with the English guess. It should be remembered that Christ was now blindfolded, as appears from Mark xiv. 66; Luke xxii. 64.—Κωιναετ. † 74. See Note on verse 34.

Therefore is called the field that, a field of blood,

εως της σημερον. <sup>9</sup> Τοτε εκπληρωθη το ρηθεν
to the day. Then was fulfilled the word spoken

1 † Now, at the Dawn of day, All the HIGH-PRIESTS and the ELDERS of the PEOPLE, held a Council against JESUS, in order to deliver him to death.

2 And binding him, they led and delivered him up to Pilate, the GOVERNOR.

3 † Then THAT Judas who DELIVERED him up, perceiving That he was condemned, repented; and returned the THIRTY Shekels to the HIGH-PRIESTS and the ELDERS,

4 saying, "I have sinned in betraying innocent Blood." But THEY said, "What is that to us? Thou wilt see to that."

5 And hurling the SHEKELS in the TEMPLE, he withdrew, † and having gone away, strangled himself.

6 And the HIGH-PRIESTS taking the MONEY, said, "It is not lawful to put it into the † CORBANAN, seeing it is the Price of Blood."

7 And taking Counsel, they bought with it the † POTTER'S FIELD, as a burial-place for † STRANGERS.

8 Therefore that FIELD is called, † The field of Blood, even to THIS-DAY.

9 Then was verified the * VATICAN MANUSCRIPT.—2. Pontius—omit.

† 6. The sacred treasury for the gifts which had been vowed to the temple. It was so named from Corban, a gift. See Mark vii. 11. It was a large chest with a hole in the lid, and it stood in the court of the altar, on the right side as you face the house of the Lord. See 2 Kings xii. 9. This chest was out of the reach of those who brought their money to it. They delivered their money to the priest, who placed it in the chest. Hence Judas, when his money was refused, had to throw it on the ground. The Corbanan, or chest in the court of the altar, must be distinguished from the gazophylakion, the treasury, mentioned in Mark xii. 41, and John viii. 20. This was a name given to the court of the women, because therein were placed chests for voluntary gifts to the temple. They were there placed because the crowd was greatest in that court; and it was into these chests that a Jew could drop a gift so privately that his left hand should not know what his right did.—S. Sharpe, † 7. It was just without the wall of Jerusalem, south of mount Zion, and was originally called the potter's field, because it furnished a sort of clay suitable for potter's ware. Accedana, as late as the seventeenth century, was used as a burying-place by the Armenian Christians in Jerusalem. But according to Robinson, it has long been abandoned for sepulchral purposes. It is not fenced in, and the charnel house, now a ruin, is all that remains to point out the site. † 7. The article is significant in the original, though our languages will not bear it. For it shows that strangers in general, people of a different country and religion, are not meant, but strange Jews only; Jews who were not natives of Jerusalem, but might come there to worship at the temple, or on other business. Where no such specification is intended, the article is omitted; Eph. ii. 12; Heb. xii. 13.—Wakefield.

† 1. Mark xv. 1; Luke xxii. 66; John xviii. 28. † 3. Math. xxvii. 14. 15. † 6. † 1. 18. † 8. Acts i. 19.

δια Ἰερεμίου του προφητου, λεγοντος· “Και ελαβον τα τριακοντα αργυρια, την τιμην του τιμιμημενου, ον ετιμησαντο απο υιων Ισραηλ, και εδωκαν αυτα εις τον αγρον του κεραμεως· καθα συνεταξε μοι κυριος.”

WORD SPOKEN through † JEREMIAH the PROPHET, saying, † “And I took the THIRTY Shekels, (the “price at which they valued the PRECIOUS ONE,) “from the Sons of Israel, “and gave them “for the POTTER’S FIELD, “even as the Lord directed “me.”

11<sup>ο</sup> Ο δε Ιησους εστη εμπροσθεν του ηγεμονος· και επρωτησεν αυτον ο ηγεμων, λεγων· Συ ει ο βασιλευς των Ιουδαιων; Ο δε Ιησους εφη αυτω· Συ λεγεις. 12 Και εν τω κατηγορησαι αυτον υπο των αρχιερων και των πρεσβυτερων, ουδεν απεκρινατο. 13 Τότε λεγει αυτω ο Πιλατος· Ουκ ακουεις, ποσα σου καταμαρτυροισι; 14 Και ουκ απεκριθη αυτω προς ουδε εν ρημα· ωστε θαυμαζειν τον ηγεμονα λιαν.

11 And JESUS stood before the GOVERNOR; and HE asked him, saying, † “Art thou the KING of the JEWS?” And JESUS replied, “Thou sayest.”

12 But he made no reply to the accusations of the HIGH-PRIESTS and the ELDERS.

13 Then PILATE says to him, “Dost thou not hear how many things they testify against thee?”

14 And he gave him no answer, not even one word; so that the GOVERNOR was greatly surprised.

15 † And at each Feast the GOVERNOR was accustomed to release to the CROWD one Prisoner, whom they wished.

16 And they had then a well-known Prisoner, named † Barabbas.

17 Therefore, being assembled, PILATE said to them, “Which do you wish that I release to you?”

15 Κατα δε εορτην ειθκει ο ηγεμων απο λυειν ενα τω οχλω δεσμιοι, ον ηθελου. 16 Ειχον δε τοτε δεσμιοι επισημον, λεγομενον Βαραββαν. 17 Συνηγημενων ουν αυτων, ειπερ αυτοις ο Πιλατος· Τινα θελετε απολυσω υμιν;

† 6. This quotation from the prophet has greatly puzzled the critics. The passage is not found in Jeremiah; and only something very like it in Zechariah. Several solutions of the difficulty have been offered. 1. A corruption of the names arising from MS. abbreviations; e. g., some copyist mistaking Zea, Zechariah, for Iou, Jeremiah. 2. That Matthew simply wrote, through the prophet, omitting, as he often did, the name of the prophet. The ancient Syrian and Persian versions omit the name, and some Greek MSS., but a large majority of MSS. insert it. 3. Mede and Kidder suppose that Jeremiah in the first instance wrote the chapter from which these words are taken, as well as the two former, and that the Evangelist was influenced by this opinion. 4. Whitby says, “We know, from Jerome, that there was still extant in his time, an apocryphal book of the prophet Jeremiah, in which was found every letter of the words quoted by Matthew.” Dr. Gausson, remarks on this:—“We know also that the Second Book of Maccabees (ii. 1-9) relates many of the actions and words of Jeremiah, which are taken from another book than that of his canonical prophecies. Why, then, might not the words quoted by the evangelist have been pronounced really by Jeremiah, and have remained in the memory of the Church to the days of Zechariah, who might have again given them a place theopneustically in holy Scripture, (as in the case with the unwritten words of Enoch, quoted in the Epistle of Jude, (verses 14 and 15.) or the unwritten words of Jesus Christ, quoted by St. Paul in the Book of Acts? (xx. 35.) What confutes this a supposition is, that part only of the words quoted by St. Matthew were found in Zechariah. Besides, it is known that this prophet was fond of recalling the words of Jeremiah. (See Zech. i. 4, and Jer. xviii. 11; Zech. iii. 8, and Jer. xlii. 5.) † 10. Some very ancient authorities cited by Origen, read “Jesus, the son of Abbes;” which Michaelis says is undoubtedly the original reading. The word “Jesus” was omitted in later copies, in honor to the name.

† 10. It is to be observed, that by this day is meant this night. This may seem a strange interpretation, till it is considered, that the day, according to the reckoning in Judea, began on the evening before Pilate's wife sent this message to her husband; and that therefore the night in which she had her dream, was a constituent part of what she meant by this day. This is agreeable to what we read in Gen. i. 5; "the evening and the morning were the first day."—Bishop Pearce.

† 27. The palace of the Roman governor was so called. But here the court-yard in front of the Prætorium seems meant. The Roman Prætorium had been Herod's palace. It stood to the west of the temple. The road from the Prætorium entered the temple by a bridge over the valley at the south-west corner.

† 28. The color distinguished it as suitable for a man of high rank in the army; but in shape the elamys was the same for the emperor and for the common soldier. This was put on him to ridicule his pretensions to the title of a king.

† 29. It does not appear, that this crown was intended to torture his head; but rather to mock his claim to royalty. Dr. Clarke says, "Mark, chap. xv. 17; and John, chap. xix. 5, term it stephanion akanthion, which may very well be translated an acanthine crown, or wreath formed out of the branches of the herb acanthus, or bear's foot. This, however, is a prickly plant, though nothing like thorns, in the common meaning of that word."

† 35. The clause found in the Common Version, "that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, 'They parted my garments among them, and upon my vesture did they cast lots,'" is found in comparatively few MSS., and has no place in the ancient versions.

† 51. In Solomon's Temple the sanctuary was divided from the holy of holies by a wall, beyond which the veil fell; but in Herod's Temple, as Maimonides relates, a second veil, at the distance of a cubit from the first, supplied the place of the wall. That it was the interior veil, belonging to the holy of holies, which was rent at the crucifixion is clearly intimated in Heb. ix. 8; x. 10, as well as by the term which the Evangelist has employed to designate it.

† 55. So Mark and Luke; nor are they inconsistent with John xix. 25, where our Lord's mother and the other two women are said to have stood beside the cross. They kept at a distance for a while; and afterwards as the darkness came over, gathered courage, and came so near that Jesus had an opportunity to speak to them before he expired.—Macknight

† 62. Paraskeue denoted the day preceding any sabbath or festival, as being that on which the preparation for its celebration was to be made. † 65. The Jews had a Roman guard appointed them for the security of the temple. It was usually stationed in the castle of Antonio, but removed during festivals to the outer court of the temple, to quell any tumult that might arise in the city. Pilate gave them leave to employ this guard for their present purpose. † 66. A mode of security in use from the earliest times, and which supplied the place of locks. See Dan. vi. 17. It was usual to affix the seal to the extremities of a cord or leathern band, passing over the stone. But how futile were the machinations of his enemies in order to prove him to be an impostor! Let it be remembered that the tomb was new, and excavated out of the rock—was contiguous to Jerusalem—a great stone was placed at the entrance, and was sealed to prevent deception—and a guard to protect the body.

All these facts are strong presumptive proofs of the reality of the resurrection.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

1 † Now after the Sabbath, as it was DAWNING to the first day of the Week, Mary of MAGDALA, and the OTHER Mary, went to see the TOMB.

2 And, behold, a great Shaking occurred; for an Angel of the Lord descending from Heaven, came and rolled back the STONE; and sat upon it.

3 † And his APPEARANCE was like LIGHTNING, and his VESTMENTS white as SNOW;

4 and from FEAR of him the GUARDS trembled, and became as DEAD men.

5 And the ANGEL answering, said to the WOMEN, "Be not you afraid; for I know That you seek THAT Jesus who was CRUCIFIED.

6 He is not here; for he has been raised, even as he said. Come, see the PLACE where * he lay.

7 And immediately go and tell his DISCIPLES That he has been raised from the DEAD; and, behold, † he precedes you to GALILEE; there you will see Him; behold, I have told you."

8 And coming out immediately from the TOMB, with Fear and great Joy, they ran to tell his DISCIPLES.

9 † And, behold, JESUS met them, saying, "Rejoice!" And THEY having approached, clasped his NECK, and prostrated to him.

10 Then JESUS says to them, "Be not afraid; go † inform my brethren, so that they may go to GALILEE, and there they will see Me."

11 And as they were GOING away, some of the GUARD, entering the CITY, told to the HIGH-PRIESTS
 ALL THE THINGS which had HAPPENED.

12 And being assembled with the ELDERS, and taking Counsel, they gave a good many Shckels to the SOLDIERS,

13 saying, "Say you,
 'that HIS DISCIPLES came
 by Night, and stole him,
 while we slept;'

14 and if this should be reported to the GOVERNOR, we will persuade him, and make you safe."

15 And they having received the SHEKELS, did as they were instructed;
 and this SAYING is currently reported among the Jews to THIS day.

16 And the ELEVEN Disciples went to GALILEE, to the MOUNTAIN where JESUS had ordered them.

17 And seeing him, they (indeed) prostrated to him;
 but some doubted.

18 And JESUS approaching, spoke to them, saying, † All Authority has been imparted to me, in Heaven and on Earth.

1 The Beginning of the GLAD TIDINGS of Jesus Christ, the Son of * God;

2 as it is written * † in the PROPHETS, † "Behold, " * I send my MESSENGER "before thy FACE, who will "prepare thy WAY.

3 † "A Voice proclaiming in the DESERT, 'Pre- pare the WAY for the "Lord, make the HIGH- "WAYS straight for him."

4 † John was immersing in the DESERT, and publishing an Immersion of Reformation for Forgiveness of Sins.

5 † And resorted to him All the COUNTRY of JU- DAEA, and all THOSE of JERUSALEM, and were im- mersed by him in the RIVER JORDAN, confessing their SINS.

6 † Now John was clothed in Camel's Hair, with a Leathern Girdle encir- cling his WAIST; and eating Locusts and Wild Honey.

7 And he proclaimed, saying, † "THE POWERFUL ONE comes after me; for whom I am not worthy 'to stoop down and untie the STRINGS of his SAN- DALS.

8 † I immerse you in Water, but he will im- merse you in holy Spirit."

9 † And it occurred, in Those DAYS, that Jesus came from Nazareth of GALILEE, and was im-

As the common reading has an immense majority in its favor, and some noted versions; as the quotation is from two different prophecies, Mal. iii. 1, and Isa. xl. 3, 5, of which the nearest is not from Isaiah, but from Malachi; and as the Jews often say, "As it is written in the Prophets," yet it is never said in the N. 29 Και ευθεως, εκ της συναγωγης εξελθοντες,
 And instantly, out of the synagogue being come,
 ηλθον εις την οικιαν Σιμωνος και Ανδρεου, he went into the house of Simon and Andrew, μετα Ιακωβου και Ιωαννου. 30 Η δε πενθερα they spoke to him about her. And coming called them; and leaving their FATHER Zebedee in the BOAT with the HIRE-SERVANTS, they followed him.

21 † And they went to Capernaum; and on the SABBATH, entering the SYNAGOGUE, he taught the people;

22 † and they were struck with awe at his mode of INSTRUCTION; for he taught them, as possessing Authority, and not as the SCRIBES.

23 † Now there was in their SYNAGOGUE, a Man with an impure Spirit;
 and he exclaimed,

24 saying, "What hast
 thou to do with us, Jesus Nazarene? Comest thou to destroy us? I know thee who thou art, the HOLY ONE of GOD."

26 And the IMPURE
 SPIRIT, † having convulsed him, and having cried with a loud Voice, came out of him.

† 21. Doddridge remarks, "Our manner of rendering these words, He is besides himself, or He is mad, is very offensive. One can hardly think Christ's friends would speak so contemptibly and impiously of him; and if that sense must necessarily be retained, it would be much more decent to render the clause, It (that is, the multitude) is mad, thus unseasonably to break in upon him." Schotengen contends, that the multitudo, and not Christ is here intended. Christ was in the house; the multitude, ochlos, verse 30, went out, krateesai auton, to restrain it, (viz. ochlos, the multitude,) to prevent them from rushing into the house and disturbing their Master, who was taking some refreshment. This conjecture should not be lightly regarded.—Clarke.

† 29. The Vat. MSS. reads Transgression, and Griesbach has placed the word amartematos, sin, or transgression, in the margin, with his mark of strong probability. Grotius, Mill, and Bengel prefer this reading. It is also the reading of the Coptic, Armenian, Gothic, Vulgate, and all the Itala but two. It is a Hebraism for punishment, the effect of sin. The sin against the Holy Spirit is plainly stated to be, ascribing the miracles of Christ and his apostles to demoniacal agency. They who acted thus, could not be converted to the Christian faith, because they resisted the strongest possible evidence. They remain therefore in the same foolish state in which Christianity found them; which is expressed by the phrase, "he has no forgiveness."

† 2. The sepulchres of the Jews were formerly amongst rocks, mountains, and other unfrequented places, in order that there might be as little danger as possible of that pollution which touching any thing dead produced. They were often as large as a commodious room, and are now often resorted to as places of shelter for the night. Sometimes the wandering Arabs, during the winter season, take up their permanent abode in them. It appears that at a very early period, some of these tombs were used for such a purpose; as Isaiah speaks of some, "who remain among the graves, and lodge in the monuments," chap. lxxv. 4. Burchard reports, that he found many sepulchres in the rocks, at Uss Kela, (supposed to be the ancient Gadara,) showing how naturally the conditions of this narrative could have been fulfilled in that region.

† 21. Doddridge remarks, "Our manner of rendering these words, He is desides himself, or He is mad, is very offensive. One can hardly think Christ's friends would speak so contemptibly and impiously of him; and if that sense must necessarily be retained, it would be much more decent to render the clause, It (that is, the multitude,) is mad, thus unreasonably to break in upon him." Schotengen contends, that the multitude, and not Christ is here intended. Christ was in the house; the multitude, ochlos, verse 20, went out, kraterans auton, to restrain it, (viz. ochlon, the multitude,) to prevent them from rushing into the house and disturbing their Master, who was taking some refreshment. This conjecture should not be lightly regarded.—Clarke.

† 29. The Vat. MSS. reads Transgression, and Griesbach has placed the word amarternatos, sin, or transgression, in the margin, with his mark of strong probability. Grotius, Mill, and Bengel prefer this reading. It is also the reading of the Coptic, Armenian, Gothic, Vulgate, and all the Itala but two. It is a Hebraism for punishment, the effect of sin. The sin against the Holy Spirit is plainly stated to be, ascribing the miracles of Christ and his apostles to demoniacal agency. They who acted thus, could not be converted to the Christian faith, because they resisted the strongest possible evidence. They remained therefore in the same forlorn state in which Christianity found them; which is expressed by the phrase, "he had not forgiveness."

† 2. The sepulchres of the Jews were formerly amongst rocks, mountains, and other unfrequented places, in order that there might be as little danger as possible of that pestilence which touching any thing dead produced. They were often as large as a commodious room, and are now often resorted to as places of shelter for the night. Sometimes the wandering Arabs, during the winter season, take up their permanent abode in them. It appears that at a very early period, some of these tombs were used for such a purpose; as Isaiah speaks of some, "who remain among the graves, and lodge in the monuments," chap. lxxv. 4. Burchard reports, that he found many sepulchres in the rocks, at Um Keia, (supposed to be the ancient Gadara,) showing how naturally the conditions of this narrative could have been fulfilled in that region.

† 43 The persons or crowd here spoken of, were probably a set of people usually hired on these occasions to attend the funeral, and follow the procession with their lamentations.
This custom prevailed East. These are the mourning women mentioned by Jeremiah, chapter ix. 17—21; and by Amos, chapter v. 16. They were called Pharis by the Romans, because they presided over, and began, the funeral dirge. But men seem to have attended amongst them, as well as women. Dr. Shaw mentions this custom to be still continued in the East; and observes, that the women employed on these occasions, perform their parts with such proper sounds, gestures, and motions, that they rarely fail to work up the assembly to an extraordinary pitch of thoughtfulness and sorrow.—Walsford.

† 24. Note here, that very remarkable seems the providence of God, in avenging the death of this holy man upon Herod, Herodias, and her daughter. For 1st, As the war between Herod and Aretas king of Petra was caused by Herod's wicked contract with Herodias to reject the daughter of Aretas, his lawful wife, and to marry with Herodias, his brother Philip's wife, so Josephus declares that the Jews looked upon the putting John to death, as the cause of the misadventure of Herod's army. "God being angry with him for the death of John the Baptist." 2dly, Herodias envying the glory of king Agrippa, who had that honour given him by Caius, prevailed with her husband to go to Rome, and accuse Agrippa; whereupon Caius deprived Herod of his government, and her of her honour; and gave them both to Agrippa, banishing Herod and Herodias to Lyons in France; "which (says Josephus) was done in punishment of her envy, and of his readiness to hearken to her solicitations." And 3dly, of her daughter it is related, that she going over the sea in winter, she by broke, and she slipped in to the head, which at last was severed from her body by the sharpness of the ice, God repairing her head for that of the Baptist's she desired; which, if true, was a wonderful providence.—Whitby.

† 29. The Fat. MSS. reads Transgression, and Griesbach has placed the word amarternatos, sin, or transgression, in the margin, with his mark of strong probability. Grotius, Mill, and Bengel prefer this reading. It is also the reading of the Coptic, Armenian, Gothic, Vulgate, and all the Itala but two. It is a Hebraism for punishment, the effect of sin. The sin against the Holy Spirit is plainly stated to be, ascribing the miracles of Christ and his apostles to demoniacal agency. They who acted thus, could not be converted to the Christian faith, because they resisted the strongest possible evidence. They remain therefore in the same fallen state in which Christianity found them; which is expressed by the phrase, "he has not forgiveness."

† The sepulchres of the Jews were formerly amongst rocks, mountains, and other unfrequented places, in order that there might be as little danger as possible of that pollution which touching any thing dead produced. They were often as large as a commodious room, and are now often resorted to as places of shelter for the night. Sometimes the wandering Arabs, during the winter season, take up their permanent abode in them. It appears that at a very early period, some of these tombs were used for such a purpose; as Isaiah speaks of some. "who remain among the graves, and lodge in the monuments," chap. lxxv. 4. Burchard reports, that he found many sepulchres in the rocks, at Um Keis, (supposed to be the ancient Gadara,) showing how naturally the conditions of this narrative could have been fulfilled in that region.

† <sup>40</sup> The persons or crowd here spoken of, were probably a set of people usually hired on these occasions to attend the funeral, and follow the procession with their lamentations. This custom prevailed East. These are the mourning women mentioned by Jeremiah, chapter ix. 17—21; and by Amos, chapter v. 16. They were called Prætes by the Romans, because they presided over, and began, the funeral dirge. But men seem to have attended amongst them, as well as women. Dr. Shaw mentions this custom to be still continued in the East; and observes, that the women employed on these occasions, perform their parts with such proper sounds, gestures, and motions, that they rarely fail to work up the assembly to an extraordinary pitch of thoughtfulness and sorrow.—Walsfeld.

They had, however, other confidential duties, and among these, that of acting, like Turkish soldiers of the present day, as executioners. † 28. Note here, that very remarkable seems the providence of God, in averting the death of this holy man upon Herod, Herodias, and her daughter. For 1st, As the war betwixt Herod and Aretas king of Petra was caused by Herod's wicked contract with Herodias to reject the daughter of Aretas, his lawful wife, and to marry with Herodias, his brother Philip's wife; so Josephus declares that the Jews looked upon the putting John to death, as the cause of the mismanagement of Herod's army; "God being angry with him for the death of John the Baptist." 2dly, Herodias envying the glory of king Agrippa, who had that honour given him by Caesars, prevailed with her husband to go to Rome, and accuse Agrippa; whereupon Caligula deprived Herod of his government, and her of her revenues; and gave them both to Agrippa, banishing Herod and Herodias to Lyons in France, which (says Josephus) was done in punishment of her envy, and of his readiness to listen to her solicitations." And 3dly, of her daughter it is related, that she going over the ice in winter, the ice broke, and she slipped in to the head, which at last was severed from her body by the sharpness of the ice, God recovering her head for that of the Baptist's she desired; which, if true, was a wonderful providence.—Walby.

42 Και εφαγον παντες, και εχορτασθησαν.
And they ate all, and were filled.

43 Και ηραν κλασματων δωδεκα κοφινους πληρεις, και απο των ιχθυων. 44 Και ησαν οι φαγοντες τους αρτους, πεντακισχιλιοι ανδρες.
And they took up of fragments twelve baskets full, and of the fishes. And were those having eaten the loaves, five thousand men.

45 Και ευθεως ηναγκασε τους μαθητας αυτου
And immediately he urged the disciples of himself

εμβηναι εις το πλοιον, και προαγειν εις το περαν προς Βηθσαιδαν, εως αυτος απολυση τον οχλον. 46 Και αποταξαμενος αυτοις, απηλθεν εις το ορος προτευξασθαι. 47 Και οψιας γενομενης, ην το πλοιον εν μεσω της θαλασσης.
to step into the ship, and to go before to the other side to Bethsaida, while he should dismiss the crowd. And having sent away them, he went into the mountain to pray. And evening having come, was the ship in middle of the sea;

The Pharisees, (says Josephus,) delivered many doctrines of the people as belonging to the law, which were handed down by the fathers, but not written in the law of Moses; and for this reason, the sect of the Sadducees rejects them; maintaining that those things which are written, ought to be accounted parts of the law, and that such as are only received by tradition from the fathers ought not to be observed.—Ant. xiii. 18.

 † 11. A piece of history, delivered in the Talmud, will illustrate this subject, and at the same time exhibit in a clear light the profligacy, superstition, and casuistry of the Jews. A man of Beth-Horon had made a vow, and declared that his father should reap no benefit from his property. Afterwards, on the occasion of his son's marriage, he wished to invite his father to the entertainment; and, to evade the obligation of his vow, he transferred his right and property in the room and feast to a friend, who was engaged to invite his father. This, however, was judged to be unlawful, unless he had transferred entirely and truly this part of his property to his friend, without interposing any condition with respect to the invitation of his father, whom he was bound by all means not to profit. How can we be surprised at the severity with which our Savior rebuked such vile casuistry, such want of natural affection, and such abominable hypocrisy?—Wakefield.

† 15. Matthew joins the Sadducees with the Pharisees, and makes no mention of Herod. But there is no real discrepancy, since Herod and the Herodians (i. e. his adherents and courtiers) were, no doubt, Sadducees, and there is every reason to think that their doctrines and morals were such as to justify the caution of our Lord. Zumez, by a striking metaphor, denotes the infection of false doctrines, (so Matt. xvi. 12,) as well as corrupt morals.—Bloom-

† 13. That Jesus had a right to gather figs from this tree, if there had been any upon it, appears from the law of Moses, mentioned in Deut. xxiii. 24, 25. Josephus alluding to this law, mentions ripe fruits in general, not grapes and corn only. His words are—"Let not passengers, (whether natives or strangers,) be hindered from touching the ripe fruits. Let them be permitted to fill themselves with them, but not to carry any away." That some ripe figs might be expected on fig-trees at that time of the year will appear, says Pearce, from the following considerations;—"Jesus went up to this fig-tree on the 11th day of the month Nisan, i. e. three days before the Passover, which was always on the 14th day of it. 'On the morrow after the Sabbath' which followed the Passover, the first-fruits were to be offered to God in the temple." Lev. xxiii. 11. The leaves on the tree indicated that summer was nigh, Matt. xxiv. 32, and that fruit might be reasonably expected, especially as the fig-tree shoots forth its fruit before the leaves. If, therefore, the tree bore figs, now was the period to find and eat them. † 13. That is, the season for gathering them. † 14. Some cavillers object to this miracle of our Savior, and ask, What right had he to destroy this fig-tree? In answer, observe, that the tree was evidently barren, and therefore of no use to any one; that it could hardly be private property, for it was on the public road; and that it was made the means of inculcating a great moral truth on the minds of his disciples.

12 † And they sought to apprehend Him, but they feared the CROWD; for they knew that he had spoken the PARABLE respecting them; and leaving him, they went away.

13 † Then they send to him some of the PHARISEES, and of the Herodians, that they might ensnare Him in Conversation.

14 And having come, THEY say to him, "Teacher, we know that thou art sincere, and carest for no one; for thou lookest not to the Appearance of Men, but teachest the WAY of God in Truth. † Is it lawful to pay Tax to Cesar, or not?"

† 14. The Jews, whose religious system was theocracy, were of opinion, that they could not consistently with their allegiance to God their king, comply with paying an acknowledgment of subordination to an earthly sovereign. Judas of Galilee was the first who endeavored to persuade the Jews of the unlawfulness of paying tribute to a foreign potentate. See Josephus Ant. xviii. 1. and B. J. ii. 12. The primitive Christians also held a similar opinion, and fondly thought, that their subjection to Jesus Christ exempted them from all allegiance to the power of the magistrate. This idea is the proper clue to lead us to a right understanding of all those passages in the epistolary writings of the New Testament, which relate to civil government.—Wakefield.

† 1. Josephus says that the stones with which Herod built the temple, were "of a white and firm substance," and that "every one of them was about twenty-five cubits in length, eight in height, and twelve in breadth." A cubit was nearly twenty-two inches of our measure. † 2. How exactly this prediction was fulfilled may be known from Josephus.—He says, Caesar ordered the soldiers to dig up the whole city and the temple; but to leave three of the highest turrets standing; and a part of the wall, as a security to the garrison. But they so entirely dug up and levelled all the rest of the city, that none who saw it, would think it to have ever been inhabited." Eleazar, in his animated speech to his countrymen, thus exclaims: "Where is that great city, the metropolis of the Jewish people, defended by such walls and such mighty towers? Where is that city, which was thought to be inhabited by God? It is torn up from its foundations; and the only memorial that remains of it, is the camp of its destroyers, which is stationed in the ruins." It is also related in the Taanith of Malmonides, that according to Roman custom, the very foundations of the temple were dug up, and that T. Rufus, a Roman commander, carried a plough over them. † 3. From this spot the whole of Jerusalem was spread before the eye; and its situation, form, buildings, boundaries, and different parts, distinctly and individually seen; more especially Mount Moriah and Solomon's Temple, together with its spacious area.

+ 15. The peculiar construction of Eastern houses is here referred to. They were all of the same height, so that a person could walk at the top of a range of buildings, without inconvenience, from one end to the other. In Palestine they are still built on this plan. A staircase is carried on the outside from the top of the house to the bottom. The injunction in this verse is delivered in a figure, expressive of great eagerness and expedition; so that if a man was walking on the roof, he was directed to go straight forwards, till he got out of the city; and not to delay even to go down into the house to take the most necessary articles of food and raiment for his flight.

† 3. This epithet proves that Theophilus was a man of Senatorian rank; probably a prefect, or governor; the same Greek title being applied to the Roman governor Felix, in Acts xiii. 26, and elsewhere. It was equivalent to the Latin title optimus, bestowed by the Romans on their principal senators. † 9. P. P. Prideaux, referring to Lightfoot's Temple Service, says, that the priests, according to David's institution, were divided into twenty-four courses, that each course attended at Jerusalem its week; and every course being divided into seven classes, each class served its day at the temple; and each priest of that class had his part in the service appointed by lot. And Josephus gives much the same account, adding that the priests entered upon their office on the sabbath-day at noon, and left it at the same time on the sabbath-day following; and that this practice, first settled by David, continued to his own days.—Pearce.

† 1. Oikoumene literally means the inhabited earth, and is applied in this place, by some recent translators, to the Roman Empire. But as no historian mentions a general census at this time, the meaning of the word must be restricted to the land of Judea, where this enrollment took place. Oikoumene is used by Luke in chap. xxi. 26, and Acts xi. 28, and applied in this restricted sense.

† 7. Wetstein has shown from a multitude of instances, that phatwae means not merely the manger, but the whole stable. The room for guests being already full, Joseph and Mary retired to a mere homely receptacle, called a stabulum, the middle of which afforded room for cattle, and the sides accommodation for persons. It was not properly a stable, but was formed for the convenient lodging of both men and cattle. Bishop Pearce, however, has a note on this verse, which is worthy of consideration. He says, "Upon the whole, it seems to me probable, that Mary was delivered in a guest-chamber, or lodging-room, (whether it were in a public house, or that of some friend, is not said,) in some chamber of a house, and not of a stable; and that then, for want of a bed in that guest-chamber, wherein to lay her Son Jesus, she made use of one of the Eastern mangera, made of coarse cloth, and fastened, like our seamen's hammocks, to some part of the chamber where she was; and there laid him, as having no other place for him. This afforded a circumstance by which the shepherds were directed to find him out, and distinguish this holy babe from all others. See verses 12, 16."

returned the Jesus in the power of the spirit into the Galilee: and a report went out through the Whole adjacent country. 15 And he taught in their synagogues, being applauded by all.

16 And he came into the Nazareth, where he was having been brought up; and entered, according to the custom to him in the day of the sabbaths, into the synagogue: and stood up to read.

17 And the Book of Isaiah the prophet was given to him; and having unrolled the book, he found the place, where it was having been written: "A spirit of a lord upon me: of which on account of he has anointed me to publish glad tidings to poor ones, he has sent me to publish to captives a deliverance, and to blind ones recovery of sight, to send away those having been crushed in freedom, to publish a year of a lord acceptable."

20 And having rolled up the roll, he gave it back to the attendant, and sat down: and of all in the synagogue the eyes were looking steadily to him.

21 He began and to say to them: That to-day, this scripture, which is now in your ears, is fulfilled.

22 And all bore testimony to him, and wondered at the words of the graciousness, those proceeding out of the mouth of him, and said, "Is not this the son of Joseph?"

"Blind; to dispense Freedom to the oppressed;

19 "to proclaim an Era of acceptance with the Lord."

20 And having rolled up the book, he returned it to the ATTENDANT, and sat down.

And the EYES of all who were in the SYNAGOGUE were attentively fixed on him.

21 And he began to say to them, "To-day, this SCRIPTURE, which is now in your EARS, is fulfilled."

22 And all bore testimony to him, and wondered at

at † THOSE WORDS OF GRACE PROCEEDING from his MOUTH. And they said, "Is not this the son of Joseph?"

† 16. The Jewish doctors, in honor of the law and the prophets, invariably stood up while they read them; but sat down while they taught or commented on them. This was our Lord's custom, as we learn from Matt. xvi. 55—"I sat teaching in the temple every day."

† 17. The Sacred Writings used to this day, in all Jewish Synagogues, are written on skins of basil, parchment, or vellum, pasted end to end, and rolled on two rollers beginning at each end; so that in reading from right to left, they roll off with the left, while they roll on with the right. The place that he opened was probably the section for the day.—Clarke. † 18. Behind the Maronite church is a steep precipice, forty or fifty feet high, “on the brow of the hill;” the very one, it may be, over which the people of Nazareth attempted to thrust the Savior, on the Sabbath when they took such offense at his preaching in the synagogue. I observed other rocky ledges, on other parts of the hill, so precipitous that a person could not be thrown over them without almost certain destruction. A worthless tradition has transferred this event to a hill about two miles to the south-east of the town. But there is no evidence that Nazareth ever occupied a different site from the present one; and that a mob so exasperated, whose object was to put to death the object of their rage, should have repaired to so distant a place for that purpose, is entirely incredible.—Harekett.

8 And Simon Peter seeing it, fell down at the knees of * Jesus, saying, "Depart from me, O Lord, For I am a sinful Man."

9 For amazement seized him, and ALL who were with him, at the draught of fishes which they had taken;

10 and in like manner also, James and John, Sons of Zebedee, who were Partners with SIMON. And * Jesus said to SIMON, "Fear not; henceforth thou wilt catch Men,"

11 And having brought the boats to the land, † leaving all, they followed him.

12 † And it occurred, when he was in one of the cities, behold, a Man full of Leprosy, seeing Jesus, fell on his Face, and besought him, saying, "Sir, if thou wilt, thou canst cleanse Me."

13 And extending his HAND, he touched him, saying, "I will; be thou cleansed." And instantly the LEPROSY departed from him.

14 † And he commanded him to tell no one; "but go, [said he] show thyself to the PRIEST, and present an offering on account of thy CLEANSING, [as Moses commanded, for Notifying [the cure] to the people."

15 But the REPORT concerning him spread abroad the more; and great Crowds came together to hear, and he cured of their INFIRMITIES.

† 14. This injunction of our Lord upon the man to show himself to the priest, might have had a further meaning than merely a compliance with the direction of the Mosaic law in this case. The Jewish Rabbins thought that the curing of the leprosy would be characteristic of the Messiah. This makes the obstinacy and unbelief of the Jewish rulers and people appear still more inexcusable.

6 Then JESUS went with them; and being not far from the house, the CENTURION sent Friends, saying to him, "Sir, trouble not thyself; for I am not worthy that thou shouldst come under my roof;

7 therefore, I did not think myself even worthy to come to thee; but command by Word, and my SERVANT will be cured.

8 For even I am a Man appointed under Authority, having Soldiers under me, even I say to this one, 'Go,' and he goes; and to another, 'Come,' and he comes; and to my SERVANT, 'Do this,' and he does it."

9 And JESUS hearing these things, admired him, and turning, said to the CROWD following him, "I tell you, I have not found, even in ISRAEL, such great Faith."

† 14. The people of the East bury the dead without coffins; but they carry them to the grave on a bier which is shaped like one.—Harmer. "Presently a funeral procession, consisting of men and women, came rapidly from the city, (the cemetery is outside of the present Jerusalem,) and halted at a newly-made grave sunk three or four feet only below the ground. The body was not enclosed in a coffin, but wrapped in a loose garment and laid on a bier carried by hand. My impression is that even the face was partially exposed in view. It was under similar circumstances that the son of the widow at Nain was borne to the grave."—Hackett.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 And it occurred AFTER-WARDS that he traveled through every City and Village, publishing and proclaiming the glad tidings of the KINGDOM of GOD; and the TWELVE were with him,

2 and † certain Women, who had been delivered from evil Spirits and Infirmities, THAT Mary who was CALLED OF MAGDALA, † from whom seven Demons had been expelled,

3 and JOANNA, the Wife of Chuzas, Herod's Steward, and Susanna, and many others, who assisted him
 from their POSSESSIONS.

4 † Now when a great Crowd was assembling, and THEY were COMING to him from every City, he spoke by a Parable:

5 "The SOWER went forth to sow his SEED; and in SOWING, part fell by the ROAD; and it was trodden down, or the BIRDS of HEAVEN picked it up.

6 And another part fell on the ROCK; and having sprung up, it withered away, because it HAD NO Moisture.

7 And another part fell in the MIDDIST of the THORNS;
 and the THORNS springing up with it, choked it.

8 And another part fell into the GOOD GROUND, and having sprung up,
 yielded Increase, a Hundredfold." And having said this, he cried, "He having Ears to hear, let him hear."

9 † And his DISCIPLES asked him, "What may

<sup>12</sup> THOSE by the ROAD are THEY who HEAR; then the ENEMY comes, and takes away the WORD from their HEARTS, that they may not believe and be saved.

<sup>13</sup> THOSE on the ROCK are they, who, when they hear, receive the WORD with Joy; and yet these have no ROOT; they believe for a Time, and in a Time of Trial fall away.

<sup>14</sup> And THAT having fallen among the THORNS are THEY, who, HAVING HEARD, and going forth are choked by the ANXIETIES, and RICHES, and PLEASURES of LIFE, and bring no fruit to maturity.

† 26. "I was afterwards informed by Mr. Thomson of Sidon, who had recently traversed this region, and whose knowledge both of the country and its language gave him great facilities in picking up information, that nearly opposite Mejdai (Magdala), or just about opposite where we turned south, there is a place called by the natives Girsa, which Mr. T. supposes to be a corruption of Gergassene. Here there is a sharp sloping precipice of perhaps 2000 feet high. This is the 'steep place' (breccion) Matt. vii. 33; Mark v. 13; Luke viii. 33. Mark and Luke say it was in the country of the Gadarenes, and we know that Gadara (eight miles from Tiberias according to Josephus, Life, 65) must have been farther south. But the term Gadarene may be a wide one, and besides, the reading in Mark and Luke is a very doubtful one; the mass of evidence preponderates in favor of Gergassene instead of Gadarene."—Hackett.

33. Some sceptics have objected to this transaction, as not conformable to the character of JESUS. NOW as the Jews were prohibited by the laws of Hyrcanus from keeping swine, by the law of Moses from using them as food, this act was a just punishment on these Jews of law. The miracle itself served to manifest Christ's own regard to the law of God, while the disposition displayed by the people, in desiring him to depart from them, showed how well they needed correction.

The Jews made but two meals in the day; their ariston, may be called their breakfast or their dinner, because it was both, and was but a slight meal. Their chief meal was their deipnon or supper, after the heat of the day was over and the same was the principal meal among the Greeks and Romans. Josephus, in his life, says, sec. 54, that the legal hour of the ariston on the Sabbath was the sixth hour, or at twelve o'clock at noon, as we call it. † 26. This is one amongst many examples in the sacred writings of Oriental figurative language, where the expression is hyperbolical in order to render the truth meant to be conveyed in it more striking and impressive. Matthew, in chap. x. 37, expresses the literal meaning of this passage, when he says, "loves his father and mother more than me;" and in chap. vi. 24, uses the word hate with similar force. So when we read in Rom. ix. 13, "Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated," the meaning is, I have loved Jacob more than Esau; and that this is no arbitrary interpretation of the word hate, but one agreeable to the Hebrew idiom, appears from what is said in Gen. xlii. 20, 31, where Leah's being loved is explained by Rachel's being loved more than Leah; see also Deut. xli. 15-17. Something resembling what Jesus here teaches, is said by Philo (de Monarch, lib. ii. p. 230) concerning the duty of a high-priest; that he was to " estrange himself from all his relations, and not out of love to his parents, his children, or brethren, to omit any part of his duty, or act in any thing contrary to it."--Pearce.

† 10. This parable stands in connection with a palpable confusion and interruption of our Saviour's discourse, which is broken after the fifteenth verse by three verses neither connected with each other, nor with what precedes them. Neither is it directly said that our Saviour did use the parable, but is abruptly introduced, &c. I am unable to learn whether a similar parable has been recognized in the rabbinical writings out the complexion of it certainly accords with their mode of illustration much better than it does with that employed by our Saviour.—McMillan. † 22. The expression, "Abraham's bosom," alludes to the posture used by the Jews at table. This was reclining on couches after the manner of the Romans, the upper part of the body resting upon the left elbow, and the lower lying at length upon the couch. When two or three reclined on the same couch, some say the wealthiest or most honorable person lay first, (Lightfoot says, in the middle;) the next in dignity lay with his head reclining on the breast or bosom of the first, as John is said to have done on the bosom of Jesus at supper; and hence is borrowed the phrase of Abraham's bosom, as denoting the state of celestial happiness. Abraham being esteemed the most honorable person, and the father of the Jewish nation, to be in his bosom signifies (in allusion to the order in which guests were placed at an entertainment) the highest state of felicity next to that of Abraham himself. —luther. † 23. Tous kolpois, being plural, the idea seems to be as expressed in the text. † 26. This is one amongst many examples in the sacred writings of Oriental figurative language, where the expression is hyperbolic in order to render the truth meant to be conveyed in it more striking and impressive. Matthew, in chap. x. 37, expresses the literal meaning of this passage, when he says, "loves his father and mother more than me;" and in chap. vi. 24, uses the word hate with similar force. So when we read in Rom. ix. 13, "Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated," the meaning is, I have loved Jacob more than Esau; and that this is no arbitrary interpretation of the word hate, but one agreeable to the Hebrew idiom, appears from what is said in Gen. xxix. 20, 31, where Leah's being loved is explained by Rachel's being loved more than Leah; see also Deut. xxi. 15-17. Something resembling what Jesus here teaches, is said by Philo (de Monarch, lib. ii. p. 230) concerning the duty of a high-priest; that he was to "estrangle himself from all his relations, and not, out of love to his parents, his children, or brethren, to omit any part of his duty, or act in any thing contrary to it."—Pearce.

He remarks, "Along on one side of the valley, towards Gibel, there is a small precipice about two men's lengths, occasioned by the continual taking away of the salt; and in this you may see how the veins of it lie. I broke a piece off, of which that part that was exposed to the rain, sun, and air, though it had the sparks and particles of salt, yet it had PERFECTLY LOST ITS SAVOUR: the inner part, which was connected to the rock, retained its savor; as I found by proof."

† 10. This parable stands in connection with a palpable confusion and interruption of our Saviour's discourse, which is broken after the fifteenth verse by three verses neither connected with each other, nor with what precedes them. Neither is it directly said that our Saviour did use the parable, but is abruptly introduced, &c. I am unable to learn whether a similar parable has been recognized in the rabbinical writings out the complexion of it certainly accords with their mode of illustration much better than it does with that employed by our Saviour.—McCalla. Dr. Lightfoot and others have shown that the Jews in their Gemara have a parable much to the same purpose.—Dodridge.

† 22. The expression, "Abraham's bosom," alludes to the posture used by the Jews at table. This was reclining on couches after the manner of the Romans, the upper part of the body resting upon the left elbow, and the lower lying at the length upon the couch. When two or three reclined on the same couch, some say the worthiest or most honorable person lay first, (Lightfoot says, in the middle,) the next in dignity lay with his head reclining on the breast or bosom of the first, as John is said to have done on the bosom of Jesus at supper; and hence is borrowed the phrase of Abraham's bosom, as denoting the state of celestial happiness. Abraham being esteemed the most honorable person, and the father of the Jewish nation, to be in his bosom signifies (in allusion to the order in which guests were placed at an entertainment) the highest state of felicity next to that of Abraham himself.

* VATICAN MANUSCRIPT.—19. thy FAITH has saved thee—omit. 21. lo—omit.

† 21. In this verse it has been found necessary to depart from the usual signification of see Basileia tou theou, the KINGDOM of God, and render as in the text. That this rendering is admissible and correct, see Note on Matt. iii. 2. Basileia here refers to the person to whom the title and honor of king belonged, rather than to his territory or kingdom. Prof. Whiting, an able Hebrew and Greek scholar, says, this clause in the 21st verse ought to be rendered "the king is among you." Dr. A. Clarke in a note on the 21st verse evidently understood it as relating to the Christ. He says, "Perhaps those Pharisees thought, that Messiah was kept secret, in some private place, known only to some of their rulers; and that by and by he should be proclaimed in a similar way to that in which Josiah was by Jehoiada the priest. See the account, 2 Chron. xxiii. 1—11."

CHAPTER XIX.

1 And having entered, he was passing through Jericho; 2 and behold, a Man named Zaccheus, (he was rich, and a Chief Tribute-taker.) 3 sought to see who Jesus was, and could not on account of the crowd, for he was of low stature. 4 And running *BEFORE, he climbed a Sycamore to see him; For he was about to pass by it. 5 And when *Jesus came to the PLACE, looking up he said to him, "Zaccheus, hasten down, for To-day I must abide at thy house." 6 And he hastened down, and received him rejoicing. 7 And seeing it, they all murmured, saying, † "He has gone in to lodge with a Sinful man." 8 But Zaccheus standing up, said to the LORD, "Behold, Master, the HALF of * My POSSESSIONS I give to the Poor; and if I have extorted any thing from any one, † I restore fourfold." 9 And * Jesus said to him, "To-day has Salvation come to this HOUSE, since he also is † a Son of Abraham." 10 † For the SON of MAN has come to seek and to save THAT which was LOST." 11 And as they were hearing these things, proceeding he spoke a Parable, because he was near Jerusalem, and they thought that the KINGDOM of GOD

† 13 Our Lord manifestly alludes to the case of Archelaus, who went to Rome to solicit the Emperor that he might be reinstated in his father's kingdom; and the Jews sent an embassy after him, to petition and plead against him. But however he was confirmed in the kingdom of Judea; and when he returned, took ample vengeance of his enemies and opposers.—Newcome. † 13. The LXX use the original word minas for the Hebrew manek from which it is evidently derived, and it appears from Ezek. xiv. 12, to have been equal to sixty shekels. Now allowing the shekel with Dr. Prideaux, to be three whitlines, then the mina was equal to nine pounds English.—A. Clarke. Horne makes the minas equal to 23. 2s. 6d., or fifteen dollars.

9 Και ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν αὐτοῖς· Οὐδὲ ἐγὼ λέγω ὑμῖν, ἐν ποίᾳ ἐξουσίᾳ ταῦτα ποίᾳ.
 And the Jesus said to them: Neither I tell to you, by what authority these I do.

9 Ἦρξάτο δὲ πρὸς τὸν λαὸν λέγειν τὴν παραβολὴν ταύτην· Ἄνθρωπος ἐφύτευσεν ἀμπελῶνα, καὶ ἐξέδοτο αὐτὸν γεωργοῖς· καὶ ἀπέδημησεν αὐτὸν ἰκανοῦς.
 He began and to the people to say the parable this: A man planted a vineyard, and let out it to husbandmen: and went abroad times many.

10 Καὶ ἐν καιρῷ ἀπέστειλε πρὸς τοὺς γεωργοὺς δούλον, ἵνα ἀπο τοῦ καρποῦ τοῦ ἀμπελῶνος δώσιν αὐτῷ· οἱ δὲ γεωργοὶ, δειράντες αὐτὸν, ἐξάπεστειλαν κενόν.
 And in season he sent to the husbandmen a slave, that from of the fruit of the vineyard they might give to him: the but husbandmen, having beaten him, sent away empty.

11 Καὶ προσέθετο πεμψάι ἕτερον δούλον· οἱ δὲ κακείνον δειράντες καὶ ἀτιμασάτες, ἐξάπεστειλαν κενόν.
 And he proceeded to send another slave: they but also this having beaten and having dishonored, sent away empty.

12 Καὶ προσέθετο πεμψάι τρίτον· οἱ δὲ καὶ τοῦτον τραυματίσαντες ἐξέβαλον.
 And he proceeded to send a third: they but also this having wounded cast out.

13 Εἶπε δὲ ὁ κύριος τοῦ ἀμπελῶνος· Τί ποιῶ; πεμψάτω τὸν υἱὸν μου τὸν ἀγαπητὸν ἵσως τούτου ἰδόντες ἐντραπήσουται.
 lord of the vineyard: What shall I do? I will send the son of me the beloved; perhaps this seeing they will regard.

14 Ἰδόντες δὲ αὐτὸν οἱ γεωργοὶ, διελογίζοντο πρὸς ἑαυτοὺς, λέγοντες· Οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ κληρονομὸς· * [δεῦτε,] ἀποκτείνωμεν αὐτόν, ἵνα ἡμῶν γενῆται ἡ κληρονομία.
 Seeing but him the husbandmen, they reasoned with themselves, saying: This is the heir; let us kill him, that the inheritance may become ours.

15 Καὶ ἐκβαλόντες αὐτὸν ἐξω τοῦ ἀμπελῶνος, ἀπέκτειναν· Τί οὖν ποιήσει αὐτοῖς ὁ κύριος τοῦ ἀμπελῶνος;
 And they cast him out of the vineyard, they killed him. What, therefore, will the owner of the vineyard do to them?

16 Ἐλευσεται καὶ ἀπολέσει τοὺς γεωργοὺς τούτους, καὶ δώσει τὸν ἀμπελῶνα ἄλλοις.
 He will come and will destroy those husbandmen those, and give the vineyard to others.

17 Ἄκουσαντες δὲ εἶπον· Μὴ γενοῖτο.
 Having heard and they said: Not let it be.

18 Ὁ δὲ, ἐμβλεψάς αὐτοῖς, εἶπε· Τί οὖν ἐστὶ τὸ γεγραμμένον τούτου· Ἐπίθων ὃν ἀπεδοκίμασαν οἱ οἰκοδομοῦντες, οὗτος ἐγενήθη εἰς κεφαλὴν γωνίας.
 He but, having looked to them, he said: What then is that having been written this: "A stone which rejected the builders, this has been made into a head corner?"

19 Πᾶς ὁ πέσων ἐπ' ἐκεῖνον τὸν λίθον, συνθλασθήσεται· ἐφ' ὃν δ' ἂν πέσῃ, λικινηθεῖ αὐτόν.
 All the falling upon that the stone, will be bruised; on whom but it may fall, will grind to powder him.

8 And JESUS said to them, "Neither do I tell you by What Authority I perform these things."

9 And he began to speak this PARABLE to the PEOPLE. † "A Man planted a Vineyard, and leased it to Cultivators, and left the country for a long time.

10 And at the Season he sent a Servant to the CULTIVATORS, that they should give him of the FRUIT of the VINEYARD. But the CULTIVATORS beat him, and sent him away empty.

11 And again he sent Another Servant; and THEY beat him also, and having shamefully treated him, sent him away empty.

12 And again he sent a third; and THEY wounded him also, and drove him out.

13 Then the OWNER of the VINEYARD said, "What shall I do? I will send my BELOVED SON; perhaps they will respect him."

14 But when the CULTIVATORS saw him, they reasoned among themselves, saying, "This is the HEIR; let us kill him, that the INHERITANCE may become ours."

15 And having thrust him out of the VINEYARD, they killed him. What, therefore, will the OWNER of the VINEYARD do to them?

16 He will come and destroy those CULTIVATORS, and give the VINEYARD to others." And having heard it, they said, "Let it not be."

† 37. Many modern critics regard the phrase,—at the Bush,—as referring to the section in the book of Exodus, commencing at chap. iii. 2, where it is recorded that the angel of Jehovah appeared to Moses "in a flame of fire out of a bush." In Mark xii. 26. we read, Jesus asks, "Have you not read in the book of Moses, at the bush, how God spoke to him?" evidently alluding to the place or section where it was to be found. So here he says "that the dead rise, even Moses has declared at the [section of] The Bush when he calls Jehovah &c. Now Moses could only be said to declare this by recording what the angel said. See the account in Exodus. † 38. † 43. There is no mention of this circumstance in any of the other Evangelists: and it is worthy of remark, that among many of the ancients, the authenticity of these two verses, the 43rd and 44th, has been doubted, and in consequence, they are omitted in several MSS., and in some Versions and Fathers. The Codex Alexandrinus, and the Codex Vaticanus, the two oldest MSS. in the world, omit both verses; in some very ancient MSS. they stand with an asterisk before them, as a mark of dubiousness; and they are both wanting in the Coptic fragments published by Dr. Ford. They are however extant in such a vast number of MSS. Versions and Fathers, as to leave no doubt with most critics, of their authenticity. — Clarke. Griesbach notes them as wanting in some authorities, but thinks that they ought not to be omitted.

* VATICAN MANUSCRIPT.—Title—ACCORDING TO JOHN.

† 1. In this and the fourteenth verse logos, has been transferred, rather than translated. Dr. A. Clarke remarks, "This term should be left untranslated, for the very same reasons why the names Jesus and Christ are left untranslated. As every appellative of the Savior of the world, was descriptive of some excellence in his person, nature, or work, so the epithet Logos, which signifies a word spoken, speech, eloquence, doctrine, reason, or the faculty of reasoning, is very properly applied to him." See 1 John i. 1, for a clear and useful comment by the apostle John on the proem to this Gospel. † 3. Ginomai occurs upwards of seven hundred times in the New Testament, but never in the sense of create, yet in most versions it is translated, as though the word was κτίζω. "The word occurs fifty-three times in this Gospel, and signifies to be, to come, to become, to come to pass; also, to be done or transacted. All things in the christian dispensation were done by Christ, i. e. by his authority, and according to his direction; and in the ministry committed to his apostles, nothing has been done without his warrant. See John xv. 4, 5, "Without me ye can do nothing." Compare ver. 7, 10, 16; John xvii. 8; Col. i. 16, 17."  did not deny, but acknowledged, "I am not the 21 And they asked him,

 "Who * then art thou?"

* VATICAN MANUSCRIPT.—18. Only-begotten Son, HE who is. 19. to him Priests. 21. then art thou? Art thou Elijah?

† 13. Griesbach notes a different reading of this verse. Instead of οι, εγεννηθησεν he has οσ. εγεννηθησεν; the singular pronoun and verb for the plural; which would make the passage read—"Who was not begotten of Blood, nor of the Will of the Flesh, nor of the Will of a Man, but of God," thus referring it directly to the physical generation of the Messiah, by the Spirit of God, rather than to the moral regeneration of believers. † 14. New- come in his Translation of the New Testament, remarks, "Jesus, the Son of God, is called the Word, because God revealed himself or his word by him." The following singular Eastern custom may perhaps illustrate the phraseology of the first part of this chapter. "In Abyssinia, there is an officer named Kal Hatz, the word or voice of the king, who stands always upon the steps of the throne, at the side of a lattice window, where there is a hole, covered in the inside with a curtain of green tulle. Behind this curtain the king sits; and speaks through the aperture to the Kal Hatz, who communicates his commands to the officers, judges, and attendants.—Bruce's Travels." † 15. † 39. It was the way of the ancients to divide the day into twelve hours, and the night into as many. The first hour of the day was an hour after the sun rose, and the twelfth was when it set. This was the way in Judea, and to this the other Evangelists adhere. But St. John appears to have reckoned the hours as we do, from midnight to noon, and again from noon to midnight. And it may be observed, that he mentions the hour of the day oftener than any other Evangelist; as if with design to give his readers an opportunity of discerning his method, by comparing one passage with another. If the time here intended was that which we may call Jewish, (to distinguish it, not from the Greek and Roman which were the same with the Jewish, but from the modern) the tenth hour was about four in the afternoon, or two hours before the day ended in Judea; with which time neither the words nor circumstances of the narration seem to agree. For the words, they abode with him that day, rather imply, that they spent a good part of the day with him. Therefore the most reasonable account of this tenth hour is, that it was ten in the morning.—Townson.

† 6. The exact capacity of this measure cannot now be determined. The LXX use the word in the original for the bat, which contained about seven gallons: and for the seal, which contained one-third of the bath. 2 Chron. iv. 5; 1 Kings xviii. 32. † 8. The Greek word here is a compound, denoting the president of the tridinium, or guest chamber, so called from its containing three couches placed in the form of a crescent, on which the guests reclined during the entertainment. It was the duty of this officer to prepare the feast, arrange the couches, dispose the guests, place the dishes, and taste the wine and viands.—Stockius in Verb. Lightfoot, in his Horæ Heb. Talmud, adds, "That he performed the duty of chaplain also, by saying grace, and pronouncing those benedictions which were accustomed to be given upon occasion of a marriage. He blessed the cup also prepared for the guests; and having first drank of it himself, sent it round to the company. In the Book of Ecclesiasticus (xxii. 1) we have an account of his duties.

† 10. The Greek expression here does not imply the least degree of intoxication. The verbs methusko and methuo, from methos, wine, which, from meta thesin, to drink after sacrificing, signify not only to inebriate, but to take wine, to drink wine to drink enough, and in this sense the verb is evidently used in the Septuagint. Gen. xliii. 24; Cant. v. 1; 1 Mac. xvi. 16; Eccles. I. 16. And the prophet Isaiah, chap. lviii. 11, speaking of the abundant blessings of the godly compares them to a well-watered garden, which the LXX translate, ous kepos methusoon, by which is certainly understood, not a garden drowned with water, but one sufficiently saturated with it, not having one drop too much, nor too little.—Clarke, † 15. It is probable that this cleansing of the temple occurred at the commencement of our Lord's ministry, and is not to be confounded with that mentioned by the other evangelists, which took place at its close.

LIEVING into him may † have aionian Life.

16 † For GOD so loved the WORLD, that he gave * HIS SON, the ONLY-BEGOTTEN, that EVERY ONE BELIEVING into him may not perish, but obtain aionian Life.

17 † For GOD sent not his SON into the WORLD that he might judge the WORLD, but that the WORLD through him might be saved.

18 † HE BELIEVING into him is not judged; but HE not BELIEVING has been judged already. Because he has not believed into the NAME of the ONLY-BEGOTTEN SON of GOD.

19 And this is the JUDGMENT, † That the LIGHT has come into the WORLD, and MEN loved the DARKNESS rather than the LIGHT; for Their WORKS were evil.

20 For † EVERY ONE who does Vile things hates the LIGHT, and comes not to the LIGHT, that his WORKS may not be detected.

21 But HE who DOES the TRUTH comes to the LIGHT, so that HIS WORKS may be manifested That they have been done in GOD.

22 After this, JESUS and his DISCIPLES went into the TERRITORY of JUDEA, and there he remained with them, and was immersing.

23 And * JOHN also was immersing in ENON, near SALIM, because there were many Waters there; and they were coming and being immersed.

24 † For * JOHN had not yet been cast into PRISON.

CHAPTER IV.

1 When, therefore, the LORD knew, That the PHARISEES had heard, † That Jesus was making and immersing More Disciples than John;

2 (though Jesus himself did not immerse, but his DISCIPLES;)

3 He left JUDEA, and went again into GALILEE.

4 And it was necessary for him to pass through SAMARIA.

5 He comes, therefore, to a City of SAMARIA called † Sychar, near the FIELD which, † Jacob gave * to JOSEPH his SON.

6 And JACOB'S Fountain was there. JESUS, therefore, having become weary from the JOURNEY, sat down over the FOUNTAIN. It was about the † sixth Hour.

7 There comes a Woman of SAMARIA to draw Water. JESUS says to her, "Give me to drink."

8 (For his DISCIPLES had gone into the CITY, that they might buy Provisions.)

9 The SAMARITAN WOMAN, therefore, says to him, "How dost thou, being a Jew, ask drink of me, who am a Samaritan Woman?" (‡ For the Jews do not associate with Samaritans.)

10 Jesus answered and said to her, "If thou didst know the CITY of GOD, and who is HE that says to thee, 'Give me to drink,' thou wouldst ask him, and he would give thee Living Water."

† 6. According to John's computation of time, this would be six o'clock in the afternoon. See Note on John i. 39. The women of the East have stated times for going to draw water—not in the heat of the day, but in the cool of either morning or evening. It was very likely in the evening that this Samaritan woman came to draw water, because it is said, Jesus had become weary with his journey; and because the Samaritans when they came to see him, invited him to remain or lodge with them.

† 43. Pearce thinks that some words have been lost from the end of this verse, which may be supplied thus: "Went into Galilee, but not to Nazareth; for Jesus himself had declared," etc. In Matt. xlii. 57; Mark vi. 4; and Luke iv. 24, which are the only texts where Jesus is said to have declared this, he spoke of Nazareth only, and not Galilee in general, a country where he lived for the most part, and wrought the greatest number of his miracles, and made the most converts.—Clarke. There is a probability that something to this purpose has been very early omitted in transcribing. The casual conjunction gar, for, which introduces the next verse, shows that it contains the reason of what had immediately preceded.—Camp.

46 * Then he came again towards Cana of GALILEE, † where he made WATER Wine. And there was a Certain Courtier, Whose SON was sick in Capernaum.

47 He, having heard That Jesus was come out of JUDAEA into GALILEE, went to him, and asked him, that he would come down and cure His SON; for he was about to die.

48 Jesus, therefore, said to him, † "If you see not Signs and Prodigies, you will not believe."

52 He then inquired * that HOUR in which he grew better. * And they said to him, "Yesterday, at the † seventh Hour, the FEVER left him."

† 52. According to John's computation of time this would be seven o'clock in the evening. Macknight thinks the Roman hour is intended, i. e. seven in the evening: and this he thinks is the reason why our Lord did not accompany the courtier: for as Cana was a day's journey from Capernaum, had our Lord gone at that hour, he must have traveled in the night, from which it might have been inferred, that he could not cure the child without being personally present. 6 Jesus seeing him lying, and knowing that he had now been thus a Long Time, says to him, "Dost thou wish to become well?"

7 The sick person answered him, "Sir, I have no Man, that, when the WATER is agitated, he may put me into the BATH; but while I am coming, another goes down before me."

8 Jesus says to him, † "Rise, take up thy couch, and walk."

9 And immediately the MAN became well, and took up his COUCH, and walked. † Now That DAY was a Sabbath.

The following are the principal ceremonies. (1.) During the entire week of its continuance, the people slept in booths or tents, erected in the fields or streets, or on the flat, terrace-like roofs of their houses. (2.) Extraordinary offerings were made. See Num. xxix. (3.) During the feast, branches of palm, olive, citron, myrtle, and willow, were carried in the hands, singing "Hosanna," that is, Save now; or, Save I beseech thee. Psa. cxviii. 25. It was meant as a prayer for the coming of the Messiah. Thus was Jesus conducted into Jerusalem, by the multitude, who believed him to be the promised Savior. (4.) The libation of water upon and around the altar, which was an emblem of the effusion of the Holy Spirit. To this Christ alluded, when, in the last day of the feast, he cried, "If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink." During the whole festival, music, feasting, rejoicings, and illuminations, gladdened the city.—Melcom.

31 But † many of the CROWD believed into him, and said, "When the MESSIAH comes, will he do More Signs than what this person did?"

32 The PHARISEES heard the CROWD murmuring these things about him; and the * HIGH-PRIESTS and the PHARISEES sent Officers that they might seize him.

33 JESUS therefore said, † "Yet a Little Time am I with you; then I am going to HIM who SENT me.

34 † You will seek me, and will not find * me; and where I am, * there you cannot come."

35 The JEWS then said among themselves, "Where is he about to go, that we shall not find him? Is he about to go to † the DISPERSION of † the GREEKS, and to teach the GREEKS?"

36 What is This WORD that he said, "You will seek me, and will not find * me; and where I am you cannot come?"

37 † Now in † the LAST, the GREAT Day of the FEAST, JESUS stood and cried, saying, † "If any one thirst, let him come to me and drink.

† 35. Probably the Hellenists, or Grecian Jews, are here intended. These spoke the Greek language, and are thus distinguished from the Hebrews, who spoke the Hebrew language at that time. † 37. The last day grew into high esteem with the Jews, because on the preceding seven days they held that sacrifices were offered, not so much for themselves, as for the whole world. They offered, in the course of them, seventy bullocks, for the seventy nations of the world; but the eighth was wholly on their own behalf. They had then this solemn offering of water, the reason of which is this:—At the passover the Jews offered an omer to obtain from God his blessing on their harvest; at Pentecost, their first-fruits, to request his blessing on the fruits of the trees; and in the feast of tabernacles they offered water to God, partly referring to the water from the rock in the wilderness, (1 Cor. x. 4.) but chiefly to solicit the blessing of rain on the approaching seedtime.—Lightfoot. At the feast of tabernacles the Jews drew water from Siloam, with the sound of trumpets and of songs, to derive a blessing on the rains of the year; this season or September being the beginning of the year. There was therefore a pertinency in the images of thirsting, drinking, and rivers of water.—Newcome.

+ 12. The Rabbinic denominated the Supreme Being the light of the world, and this title being assumed by our Lord was a cause of offence to the Jews. The Messiah was also frequently spoken of by the prophets under the emblem of light. See Isa. ix. 1; xlii. 8; lx. 2. Therefore, by applying this symbol to himself, the Pharisees must at once have perceived that he claimed the Messiahship. Huxford in Sermon Jud. c. xlii. tells us, that the 6th day, or day after the expiration of the 5th, which belonged to "the feast of the tabernacles," is a solemn day likewise, and is called "the feast of joy for the law;" because on that day (says he,) the last section of the law was read, the rest having been read weekly in the course of the preceding sabbaths. He adds, that on this 6th day the custom of the Jews is to take all the books of the law out of the chest and to put a candle into it, in allusion to Prov. vi. 23, or rather Psa. cxix. 106. This perhaps, after a 1, it was to the Ephr which their understanding received from the reading of the law, that Jesus here alluded to, when he said, "I am the light of the world."

CHAPTER X.

1 Indeed, I truly say to you, HE who ENTERS not by the DOOR into the FOLD of the SHEEP, but climbs up another way, HE is a Thief and a Robber;

† 4. "We see a flock of perhaps threescore black and white sheep returning from the hillside where they have been grazing, or from the caves in which they have been sheltered from the noon-heat. Before them slowly walks the shepherd, staff in hand, not once looking behind him. The flock follows quietly, not scattering nor needing the rod or the angry shout. He and they seem to know each other well, and to have mutual confidence. He who wrote the twenty-third Psalm must have known scenes like this; and still more He who said, "when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him, for they know his voice."—H. CHAPTER XI.

1 Now there was a certain sick man, Lazarus of Bethany, from the VILLAGE of † Mary, and Martha, her SISTER.

2 († It was THAT Mary who ANOINTED the LORD, and wiped his FEET with her HAIR, whose BROTHER Lazarus was sick.)

3 The SISTERS, therefore, sent to him, saying, "Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick."

4 But JESUS, having heard, said, "This SICKNESS is not to Death, † but for the GLORY of God, (that the SON of God may be glorified by it.)"

5 Now JESUS loved MARTHA, and her SISTER, and LAZARUS,

6 When, therefore, he heard That he was sick, then, indeed, † he abode in the Place where he was Two Days,

7 Then, after this, he says to the DISCIPLES, "Let us go into JUDEA again."

8 The DISCIPLES say to him, "Rabbi, † the JEWS recently sought to stone thee; and art thou going thero again?"

9 Jesus answered, "Are there not Twelve Hours of the DAY? † If any one walk in the DAY, he stumbles not, Because he sees the LIGHT of this WORLD."

10 But if any one walk in the NIGHT, he stumbles, Because the LIGHT is not in him."

1 Then JESUS Six Days before the PASSOVER came to Bethany, † where THAT LAZARUS was whom * JESUS raised from the Dead.

 4 * And one of his DISCIPLES, THAT ISCARIOT who was ABOUT to betray him, says,
 5 "Why was not THIS BALSAM sold for Three hundred Denarii, and given to the Poor?"
 6 Now he said this, not because he cared for the poor; but because he was a Thief, and † had the BOX, and stole what THINGS were DEPOSITED in it.
 7 JESUS, therefore, said, * "Suffer her, that she may keep it for the DAY of my EMBALMING.
 8 For † the POOR you have always with yourselves; but Me you have not always."
 9 A great Crowd of the JEWS, therefore, knew That he was there; and they came, not on account of Jesus only, but also that they might see LAZARUS, whom he raised from the DEAD.

<sup>10</sup> † * And even the HIGH-PRIESTS took counsel, that they might kill LAZARUS also;

<sup>11</sup> † Because, on account of him, many of the Jews went away, and believed into JESUS.

<sup>12</sup> † The NEXT DAY, a great CROWD HAVING COME to the FEAST, having heard that JESUS was coming to Jerusalem,

<sup>13</sup> took BRANCHES of PALM-TREES, and went out to meet him, and cried out, † “ Hosanna, Blessed is HE who comes in the Name of Jehovah, the KING of ISRAEL!”

<sup>14</sup> And JESUS, having found a Young ass, sat on it, as it has been written,

<sup>16</sup> Now these things his DISCIPLES knew not at FIRST; but when JESUS was glorified, † then they remembered that These things had been written about him, and they did these things to him.

<sup>17</sup> Then THAT CROWD which was with him, testified that he called LAZARUS out of the TOMB, and raised him from the dead.

<sup>18</sup> On this account also the CROWD met him, Because they heard that he had done THIS SIGN.

<sup>19</sup> Therefore the PHARISEES, said among themselves, † “ You see that you are gaining nothing; behold, the world is gone away after him.”

<sup>20</sup> And there were some Greeks of THOSE HAVING GONE UP, that they might worship during the FEAST.

† 5. The washing of the feet in times of primitive simplicity was performed by the host or hostess to the guest, but afterwards it was committed to the servants, and therefore was accounted a servile employment. When David sent to Abigail, to inform her that he had chosen her for a wife, she arose and said,—“Behold, let thy handmaid be a servant, to wash the feet of the servants of my lord.” 1 Sam. xxv. 41. At the time when our Lord performed this office, it was esteemed the office of the meanest slaves. This act plainly showed the humility and condescension of Jesus, and emphatically taught the same to his disciples. † 10. It was customary for the Jews to bathe themselves (twice, according to some,) before eating the paschal supper.

2 NOW THAT JUDAS also, who DELIVERED him up, knew the PLACE; Because * Jesus often met there with his DISCIPLES.

3 † Then JUDAS, having obtained the BAND and Officers from the HIGH-PRIESTS and * PHARISEES, comes there with Torches, and Lamps, and Weapons.

4 Jesus, therefore, knowing ALL THINGS that were coming upon him, going out, says to them, "Whom do you seek?"

5 They answered him, "Jesus the NAZARENE." * He says to them, I am JESUS." And THAT JUDAS also, who DELIVERED him up, was standing with them.

6 When therefore, he said to them, "I am he," they went back, and fell on the Ground.

7 Then he asked them again, "Whom do you seek?" And THEY said, "Jesus, the NAZARENE."

8 Jesus answered, "I told you That I am he; if, therefore, you seek Me, permit these to go."

9 That the word might be fulfilled which he said, "Of those whom thou hast given me, I lost no one."

10 † Then Simon Peter having a Sword, drew it, and struck the SERVANT of the HIGH-PRIEST, and cut off his RIGHT * EAR-TIP. Now the SERVANT'S Name was Malchus.

 Him, and two others with him, one on each side, and JESUS in the Middle.

19 † And PILATE wrote a Title, and placed it on the CROSS. Now that having been written was
 " JESUS, the NAZARENE,
 the KING of the JEWS."

20 This TITLE, therefore,
 many of the JEWS read;
 because the PLACE was
 near the CITY, where JE-SUS was crucified; and it had been written in Hebrew, * Latin, and Greek.

21 Then the HIGH-
 PRIESTS of the JEWS said
 to PILATE, " Do not write,
 THE KING of the JEWS, but THAT he said, I am King of the JEWS."

 " What I have written, I have written."

 when they had nailed JE-SUS to the CROSS, took his GARMENTS, and made FOUR PARTS, to EACH SOLDIER

 the top through the whole.

24 They said, therefore, to each other, " Let us not tear it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be;"
 that the SCRIPTURE might be verified, † " They divided my GARMENTS

 " upon my RAIMENT they
 " cast a Lot." The SOL-DIERS, therefore, did these things.

† 23. The Greek does not state the relationship between Mary and Clopas, and we must supply it by conjecture. In other gospels she is called James's Mary, and Mary the mother of James: and Clopas was probably another name for James, being a Greek translation of the Hebrew Jacob or James, a chief. Paul tells us that the Savior after his resurrection was seen by James (1 Cor. xv. 7.) which is not mentioned in the gospels or Acts, unless we suppose that Cleopas, who walked with him to Emmaus, was James. CHAPTER XX.

1 † And on the FIRST of the WEEK, Mary of MAGDALA comes early, it being yet dark, † into the TOMB, and sees the STONE, having been removed out of the TOMB.

2 She runs, therefore, and comes to SIMON PETER, and to the † OTHER Disciple whom JESUS loved, and says to them, "They have taken away the LORD out of the TOMB and we know not where they have laid him."

3 † PETER then went out, and the OTHER Disciple; and they came into the TOMB.

4 And the TWO ran together; and the OTHER Disciple outran PETER, and came first into the TOMB.

5 And stooping down, he sees † the LINEN CLOTHS lying; however, he went not in.

6 Then Simon Peter * also comes following him, and entered into the TOMB, and beheld the LINEN CLOTHS lying.

† 1. The very definite manner in which John expresses himself in this narrative, with reference to going (eis) into and coming (ek) out of the tomb, makes it very probable that this tomb, had two chambers, an outer and inner one. The body was placed in the inner one, to the door of which the stone was placed. Hence when they entered the first apartment they were said to go into the tomb, though they might not enter or see what was in the inner chamber. Such tombs are not uncommon in the East. That which is now called the "Holy Sepulchre" is one of this class.

 40 Then they cried out again, saying, † "Not him, but BARABBAS." † Now BARABBAS WAS a Robber.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 † Then PILATE, therefore took and scourged JESUS.
 2 And the SOLDIERS, wreathing a Crown of ACANTHUS, placed it on HIS HEAD; and they threw around him a purple Mantle,
 3 * and they came to him and said, "Hail, KING of the JEWS!" And they gave him Blows.
 4 * And PILATE went out again, and says to them, "Behold, I bring him out to you, That you may know that I find † No Fault in him."
 5 Then * Jesus came out, wearing the ACANTHINE CROWN, and the PURPLE Mantle. And he says to them, "Behold, the MAN!"
 6 † When, therefore, the HIGH-PRIESTS and the OFFICERS saw him, they cried out, saying, "Crucify, crucify him!" PILATE says to them, "Take him yourselves, and crucify him; for I find no Fault in him."
 7 The JEWS answered him, † "We have a LAW, and by * the LAW he ought to die, because † he made himself a Son of God."

 Him, and two others with him, one on each side, and

 a Title, and placed it on the CROSS. Now that hav-

 " JESUS, the NAZARENE,
 the KING of the JEWS."

20 This TITLE, therefore,
 many of the JEWS read;
 because the PLACE was
 near the CITY, where JE-SUS was crucified; and it had been written in Hebrew, * Latin, and Greek.

21 Then the HIGH-
 PRIESTS of the JEWS said

† 28. The Greek does not state the relationship between Mary and Clopas, and we must supply it by conjecture. In other gospels she is called James's Mary, and Mary the mother of James; and Clopas was probably another name for James, being a Greek translation of the Hebrew Jacob or James, a thief. Paul tells us that the Savior after his resurrection was seen by James (1 Cor. xv. 7.) which is not mentioned in the gospels or Acts, unless we suppose that Clopas, who walked with him to Emmaus, was James. ## CHAPTER XX.

<sup>1</sup> † And on the FIRST of the WEEK, Mary of MAGDALA comes early, it being yet dark, † into the TOMB, and sees the STONE, having been removed out of the TOMB.

<sup>2</sup> She runs, therefore, and comes to the † SIMON PETER, and to the † OTHER Disciple whom JESUS loved, and says to them, "They have taken away the LORD out of the TOMB and we know not where they have laid him."

<sup>3</sup> † PETER then went out, and the OTHER Disciple; and they came into the TOMB.

<sup>4</sup> And the two ran together; and the OTHER Disciple outran PETER, and came first into the TOMB.

<sup>5</sup> And stooping down, he sees † the LINEN CLOTHS lying; however, he went not in.

<sup>6</sup> Then Simon Peter * also comes following him, and entered into the TOMB, and beheld the LINEN CLOTHS lying.

<sup>7</sup> and † the NARKIN, which was on his HEAD, not lying with the LINEN CLOTHS, but having been folded up in a separate Place.

<sup>8</sup> Then, therefore, THAT OTHER Disciple, who CAME first into the TOMB, also went in, and he saw, and believed [her.]

<sup>9</sup> For they did not yet know † the SCRIPTURE, That he must rise from the Dead.

<sup>10</sup> Then the DISCIPLES went away by themselves.

† 1. The very definite manner in which John expresses himself in this narrative, with reference to going (eis) into and coming (ek) out of the tomb, makes it very probable that this tomb had two chambers, an outer and inner one. The body was placed in the inner one, to the door of which the stone was placed. Hence when they entered the first apartment they were said to go into the tomb, though they might not enter or see what was in the inner chamber. Such tombs are not uncommon in the East. That which is now called the "Holy Sepulchre" is one of this class.

† 25. This is a very strong eastern expression, to represent the great number of miracles which Jesus wrought. But however strong and strange this expression may seem to us of the western world, we find sacred and other authors using hyperboles of the like kind and signification; some instances of which it may be proper to lay before the reader. In Num. xiii. 33, the spies, who returned from the search of the land of Canaan, say they saw giants there of such a prodigious size, that they were "in their own sight as grasshoppers." In Deut. i. 28, cities with high walls round about them are said to be "walled up to heaven." In Dan. iv. 11, mention is made of a tree, whereof "the height reached unto the heaven," and the sight thereof unto the end of all the earth;" and the author of Ecclesiasticus, in chap. xlvi. 15, speaking of Solomon's wisdom, says, "Thy soul covered the whole earth, and thou filledst it with parables;" as the world is there said to be filled with Solomon's parables, so here, by one degree more of hyperbole, it is said that the world would not contain all the books which should be written concerning Jesus' miracles, if the particular account of every one of them were given.—Pearce.

CHAPTER V.

1 And a certain Man, Ananias by name with Sapphira his WIFE, sold an Estate,

2 and appropriated a part of the PRICE, * his WIFE also knowing of it; and having brought a certain part, † laid it at the FEET of the APOSTLES.

3 † But Peter said, "Ananias, why has the † ADVERSARY filled thine HEART to deceive the HOLY SPIRIT, and to appropriate a part of the PRICE of the LAND?"

4 While remaining unsold was it not thine? and when sold, was it not at thine own disposal? Why is it that thou hast admitted this thing into thine HEART? Thou hast not lied to Men, but to God."

5 And ANANIAS, having heard these WORDS, † fell down, and expired. And great Fear came on all those who HEARD these things.

6 Then the YOUNGER disciples arising, † wrapped him up, and carrying him out, buried him.

7 And it occurred after an interval of about three Hours, his WIFE also came in, not knowing WHAT had been DONE.

8 And * Peter answered her, "Tell me whether you sold the LAND for so much?" and SHE said, "Yes, for so much."

9 And Peter said to her, "Why have you agreed together † to try the SPIRIT of the Lord? Behold, the FEET of those who have been BURYING thy HUSBAND are at the DOOR, and they will carry thee out."

† 2. It seems probable that Stephen here followed the Jewish tradition, (adopted by Philo,) that God appeared twice to Abraham,—1st, when living in Chaldea, and 2dly, when resident in Haran. He left Ur at the first call, and came to Haran with his father Terah, (Gen. xi. 31;) he left Haran at the second call, and came into the promised land. In this way the account harmonizes with the call as narrated in Gen. xii. 1: "Now the Lord had said unto Abraham," &c. † 4. By recurring to Gen. xi. 26, 32, and xii. 4, it will appear that Terah lived 60 years after the removal of Abraham, and yet here he is said to have died before Abraham left Haran. Unless with some we suppose Abraham to have been the youngest of Terah's sons, and born when his father was 130 years old we must presume that Stephen followed some traditional account of the transaction.—Owen. The Samaritan copy makes the age of Terah at his death to be 143, or 60 years less than the Hebrew text.

 † 14. It states in Gen. xli. 26, "All the souls that came with Jacob into Egypt, which came out of his loins, besides Jacob's sons' wives, all the souls were three score and six." Stephen adds to this number nine of Jacob's sons' wives, which makes the number of seventy-five. These though not of his blood, were of his kindred, as Stephen expresses it, being related to him by marriage. † 16. In Gen. l. 13, it is stated, "that Jacob was buried in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamre;" and in Josh. xxiv. 32, that Joseph was buried in Shechem; and here we have the authority of Stephen that the rest of the twelve patriarchs were interred in the same place. † 16. The best critics are of the opinion that Abraham, as found in the text, is spurious, and has been inserted by some officious transcriber. The word Jacob ought to be supplied.

CHAPTER V.

1 And a certain Man, Ananias by name with Sapphira his WIFE, sold an Estate,

2 and appropriated a part of the PRICE, * his WIFE also knowing of it; and having brought a certain part, † laid it at the FEET of the APOSTLES.

3 † But Peter said, "Ananias, why has the † ADVERSARY filled thine HEART to deceive the HOLY SPIRIT, and to appropriate a part of the PRICE of the LAND?"

4 While remaining unsold was it not thine † and when sold, was it not at thine own disposal? Why is it that thou hast admitted this thing into thine HEART? Thou hast not lied to Men, but to GOD."

5 And ANANIAS, having heard these WORDS, † fell down, and expired. And great Fear came on all those who HEARD these things.

6 Then the YOUNGER disciples arising, † wrapped him up, and carrying him out, buried him.

7 And it occurred after an interval of about three Hours, his WIFE also came in, not knowing WHAT had been DONE.

8 And * Peter answered her, "Tell me whether you sold the LAND for so much?" and SHE said, "Yes, for so much."

9 And Peter said to her, "Why have you agreed together † to try the SPIRIT of the Lord? Behold, the FEET of those who have been BURYING thy HUSBAND are at the DOOR, and they will carry thee out."
